Peoria Hit By Disorders

Gunfire Rocks 2 Other Cities

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Shooting, fire bombing and rock throwing erupted around three predominantly Negro federal housing complexes in Peoria, Ill., Thursday night after two women were evicted from one of the projects.

In separate incidents, shotgun blasts from the street wounded three white patrons in two taverns near one of the projects. Police blamed a youth gang. Two of the patrons were seriously injured.

Police arrested more than 20 adults and detained about a dozen juveniles before dispersing the crowds early today. Mayor E. Michael O'Brien imposed a curfew on persons under 21 until further notice, and halted liquor and bulk gasoline sales.

In Cairo, Ill., whites and blacks exchanged gunfire late Thursday night but no injuries were reported. Police arrested one person but would disclose no details.

And in New Brunswick, N.J., police said they fired a volley of shots over the heads of about 15 black youths to disperse them during a night of rock throwing and firebombing in which 13 persons were arrested.

Gas Grenades Upset Dignity Of Parliament

LONDON (AP) — Scotland Yard detectives charged a construction laborer today with illegally possessing two grenades of riot control gas which exploded in Britain's Parliament Thursday, causing the worst disruption in the House of Commons since the bombings of World War II.

James Anthony Roche, 26, silent in an orange sports shirt and a leather jacket, was ordered at Bow Street Court to be held in jail for another court appearance July 31. He was not asked to plead guilty or innocent.

As Roche appeared in court, workmen replaced the burned green carpets in the mother of parliaments where two cannisters of CS tear and nausea gas set off minor fires and drove legislators reeling and weeping from the chamber. Several were overcome by the smoke and one was hospitalized for treatment.

The grenades were thrown from the visitors' gallery with a shout of "Belfast! See how you like it."

D.C. Crime Bill Clears Congress Despite Critics

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon's anticrime bill for the nation's capital, complete with the controversial "no knock" and pretrial detention provisions, has become the first of the White House's crime fighting proposals to clear Congress.

Senate approval on a 54-33 vote Thursday climaxed a week of debate marked by charges that parts of the bill are repressive and violate constitutional rights.

Most of those against passage were liberals, but Sen. Sam J. Ervin, D-N.C., a strict constitutionalist, led the fight against the bill, passed by the House last week 332 to 64. Ervin called passage "a victory for repressive criminal procedures."

'Death Squad' Activity In Brazil Hit

SAO PAULO, Brazil (AP) — The president of the Sao Paulo Supreme Court has asked President Emilio G. Medici to try to stop the "Death Squad," vigilante bands of off-duty policemen who are suspected of executing a dozen persons in the past week.

"Either this is a country with a legal government, or it isn't," said Judge Cantidiano Garcia de Almeida in an appeal to Medici and Justice Minister Alfredo Buzaid. "What we are witnessing is a punitive expedition, which doesn't capture criminals but exterminates them—without appeal, like gods."

Meanwhile police in Recife, in northeast Brazil, said they had foiled a plot to kidnap U.S. Consul Donor M. Lion, 46, of New York.

Lion reportedly knew nothing of the plot until police arrested three persons with a list of 40 political prisoners whose release was to be demanded in exchange for Lion.

X-Rays From Outer Space May Hold Secret Of Universe

New Evidence Supports 'Big Bang' Theory

By FRANK CAREY
AP Science Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Navy astronomers reported today discovery of new evidence supporting the "Big Bang" theory that the universe was created billions of years ago by the explosion of a fireball.

The evidence consists of X rays believed to come from an invisible galaxy some 76 million-trillion miles from the planet Earth, the team of Navy scientists said.

The pattern and relatively low level intensity of the X-rays substantiate Big Bang theorists' beliefs that space radiation has an extremely cold temperature. The temperature would have to be "cold" to confirm the Big Bang theory. Earlier measurements taken in the Milky Way galaxy by infra-red techniques have indicated space radiation is warm.

The "Big Bang" theory has long been the more heavily-favored of the two major concepts to explain the birth of the universe.

It holds that some 10 billion years ago all the matter for a potential universe was contained in a primordial fireball—a massive single "atom"— having a temperature of 10 billion degrees. This super-fireball lasted only a second, then exploded with a "Big Bang"—to eventually form all the stars, galaxies and planets.

The theory also holds that radiation from the initial blast still pervades the universe—so that at least some of the radio waves detectable on earth by radio telescopes represent, in effect, the very whispers or echoes of creation itself.

The rival theory to the "Big Bang" is the so-called "Steady State" concept—also known as

U.S. Bombers Hit Hard At Vacated Base

North Viet Units Near DMZ Target Of Other Strikes

SAIGON (AP) — American fighter-bombers today made massive attacks on North Vietnamese positions around fire base Ripcord, abandoned Thursday by U. S. troops after three weeks of heavy losses.

The U. S. Command said that by noon Air Force and Marine pilots had flown 36 sorties against enemy positions around the base 13 miles east of the Laotian border. A sortie is one flight by one plane.

Fifty miles to the northwest and only a mile below the demilitarized zone, U. S. B52 bombers carrying 10 times the load of the fighter-bombers attacked North Vietnamese base maps and supply depots.

South Vietnamese infantrymen sweeping five miles southwest of Ripcord found a North Vietnamese camp that had been smashed by a B52 raid Wednesday, but the destruction had no apparent effect on the enemy pressure which forced the American withdrawal the next day.

No new ground action was reported in the region although U.S. patrols were operating out of four other fire bases in the area. Ranging from four miles north of Ripcord to nine miles to the southeast, the bases form a semicircle north and northeast of the A Sau valley, and astride the routes used by the North Vietnamese to the populous coastal lowlands 25 miles to the east.

The American command apparently will try to fill the gap left by the closing of Ripcord with increased bombing raids that have the advantage of holding down U.S. casualties.

In Cambodia, the Viet Cong and North Vietnamese stepped up harassment attacks in Prey Veng Province some 30 miles southeast of Phnom Penh, but elsewhere in the country little fighting was reported.

The measure was in line with recommendations submitted last year by Nixon, who described Washington in his 1968 election campaign as "the crime capital of the world."

Other administration crime-fighting proposals still before Congress include measures to renew federal aid to local police agencies, revised penalties for narcotics related crimes, combat organized crime, and apply preventive detention to all federal jurisdictions.

Nixon has strongly criticized the legislators for not moving faster on these measures.

Democratic Leader Mink believed sufficient safeguards had been written into the preventive detention and no-knock search provisions to enable them to withstand attacks on their constitutionality.

Major Changes Predicted In Welfare Reform Plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — Three days of Senate hearings into President Nixon's welfare reform plan, already revised once, indicate the ultimate bill may only slightly resemble the administration's proposal.

"This is our best effort," Welfare Secretary Elliot L. Richardson told the Senate Finance Committee Thursday in referring to the administration's proposals.

But the committee, which had already forced revisions after the House passed the original measures in April, made it perfectly plain after Richardson's three days of testimony, the effort was not enough. Hearings resume next Tuesday.

Basis of the administration's proposals is a minimum income guarantee that would provide a family of four with $1,000 a year increasing on a sliding scale until household earned income reaches $3,920.

Elderly, blind or disabled adults would get a minimum of $110 a month.

The federal government would shoulder 100 per cent of cost for the basic benefits, including Medicaid, food stamps and housing subsidies.

It would pay 30 per cent of whatever more is needed to bring income to the poverty level with the states required to chip in the rest—so long as they don't end up paying more than their current welfare costs.

Total cost of the package in present form in 1972 would be $9.1 billion, almost double current federal welfare expenses.

Critical members of the Finance Committee, both Republicans and Democrats, see two major issues at this point.

First: Another 14 million people will go on the welfare rolls, bringing the total to 24 million. And do the administration proposals offer incentive enough to these people to work their way off the rolls?

Del Corso said Jerris Leonard, head of the Justice Department Civil Rights Division, had assured him that the report would be kept under tight secrecy. Leonard signed the 10-page summary of the 7,500-word report. The Beacon Journal said its story was based on a 10-page summary of the 7,500-word FBI report and that Leonard signed the summary.

More than 100 FBI agents investigated the shootings that resulted from student harassment of Ohio National Guard troops called to the Northeast Ohio university to quell a disturbance.

Guard officials said about 100 troops were surrounded on three sides, had run out of tear gas and fired justifiably because they felt their lives were in danger. There was no order to fire, the guard said.

Suburbs Gird To Save Share Of Income Tax

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Eighty-six suburban officials have voted to sue if Cleveland ends reciprocal payments from its municipal income tax.

The group, called together Thursday by the Cuyahoga County Mayors and City Managers Association, said it planned to ask Gov. James A. Rhodes to call a special session of the legislature to consider a mandatory 50-50 reciprocity law covering municipal income taxes.

Cleveland Mayor Carl B. Stokes has proposed cancelling reciprocal agreements with suburbs as part of a plan he says would produce an additional $27 million for Cleveland in 1971.

Cleveland's reciprocal agreements provide that one-fourth of income taxes collected from suburbanites working in the city is returned to the suburbs.

The theory of continuous creation.

It contends the universe has always been in a steady state, but that matter is continuously being fed into it—possibly just one atom at a time—and that this is what makes the universe expand, rather than any primeval fireworks.

The new evidence was obtained by an X-ray telescope carried 102 miles high by an Aerobee rocket launched from White Sands, N.M., missile range in April 1968.

The telescope, in an up-and-down flight lasting only a few minutes, zeroed in on an optically-invisible radio galaxy called "Centaurus A"—the nearest of the powerful radio-emitting galaxies, the Navy said.

The evidence dispels doubt recently cast on the "Big Bang" theory of the universe's creation, the scientists said.

The X-rays are "truly a measurement of the space radiation as it exists out in the cold environment of outer space, whereas the infrared observations constitute just a measurement of the background radiation within our own galaxy," the scientists said.

Amended Section Not Legal

Acting Judge Howard Goldsberry in a decision filed today in Pickaway County Common Pleas Court granted an injunction against the city's one half per cent income tax declaring the ordinance invalid.

The amended version passed by city council in January 1969, under which the tax is now collected, was nullified on the basis of illegal form in repealing the conflicting portions of the old ordinance.

When the new ordinance was approved an additional section was added repealing only generally what did not conform to the new legislation. Under state code, such amendments must cite specifically the portion of the previous bill or ordinance to be replaced.

Local citizen John R. Smith, 1023 Lynwood Ave., filed the charges against the city asking that the municipality be enjoined from enforcing or attempting to enforce the payment of the tax until the legal question be settled. Judge Goldsberry granted the injunction today, disposing of one of the questions of law filed by Smith and approving the second.

IN his suit, Smith declared the ordinance had not been legally passed by council. Under state law he stated that the legislation had to be read fully and completely at least once before it could be approved under suspension of the rules requiring reading on three separate dates.

When passed, the controversial ordinance was read by title only and passed immediately under suspension of the rules.

Goldsberry overruled this point declaring that statutes did provide the city fathers with authority to dispense with the full reading by a three-fourths vote of the members. It passed on all counts with six of seven possible votes, one more than the required quorum.

The new section or "inconsistency clause" added to the amended version because it did not specify the section of the old ordinance passed a month earlier it was repealing and is therefore illegal. Previous courts have ruled that when a change is made in any legislation the articles being altered must be specified.

As worded now, the clause merely repeals "only those portions of the old ordinance to be found in conflict with the amended version. It does not void the previous ordinance and leaves the question of conflicting actions to the court. According to attorney Kenneth Robbins, who represented Smith in the case, the ordinance would have been legal if the wording of Section 16 had simply repealed the former one.

Robbins himself has not paid the city tax on his income. He claimed that while the tax was under dispute and as he was representing those bringing action against it, it would be incompatible for him to follow such a course.

DAVID Goldschmidt, chairman of the finance committee of city council, said today the city needed the income tax money to operate.

He noted the revenue from the income tax provided over $160,000 annually for the city coffers. Even with the extra money it has provided the auditor has had to seek an advance draw on anticipated revenue to meet current operating expenses of the city. Only 20 per cent of the money is for the general fund. Eighty per cent is for capital improvements.

Chiefly in dispute were sections permitting pretrial detention of defendants judged likely to endanger community safety and authorizing police to enter homes without knocking while executing some search and arrest warrants.

Opponents also protested provisions for expanded police wire tapping under court orders, adult trials for juveniles charged with violent crimes such as murder and rape, and mandatory minimum sentences for second offenders convicted of crimes of violence while armed.

Other parts of the bill providing for a reorganization of the local courts, more judges, an expanded bail agency, and a public defender system were not disputed.

The measure was in line with recommendations submitted last year by Nixon, who described Washington in his 1968 election campaign as "the crime capital of the world."

Nixon Initials Bill To Boost Building

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon signed today an emergency bill to give the lagging home building industry a much needed infusion of money.

He called it "the most significant housing legislation" to be passed by this Congress and "enormously important" to the industry in giving needed impetus in the financial market to get more homes built.

The Emergency Home Finance Act, sent to Nixon by the House Monday, authorizes the appropriation of $1.2 billion to fund three mortgage interest rate subsidy programs. Two are to be established by the measure and would directly aid middle income families—those with incomes around $9,000 a year—with a reduction of home loan interest rates to 7 per cent.

The Weatherman faction broke away from the SDS a year ago.

ATHENS, Greece (AP) — Israel formally called upon Greece today to ignore an agreement with Arab airplane hijackers to free seven Arab terrorists, but Greece said it would hold to the pact, "as promised."

The Israeli statement deplored the pact as being made "under duress and blackmail" Wednesday in the barter of 53 persons aboard the plane for the terrorists' freedom.

A statement by Deputy Premier Stylianos Patacos, who negotiated the agreement through the International Red Cross, said: "The promise given to the Red Cross, whatever the circumstances, will be kept as dictated by the code of Greek morality."

At the same time, the Greek government lodged a stern protest with Arab nations against what it called "the act of piracy" in the hijacking to Cairo Wednesday by Arab terrorists of an Olympic Airways jetliner and the threat to blow it up.

Shock Greeted Kent Report

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — Adj. Gen. Sylvester T. Del Corso said today a report on purported contents of an FBI report into the May 4 shooting deaths of four Kent State University students contained "unbelievable" assertions.

The Akron Beacon Journal, in a copyrighted story published Thursday, said the FBI had concluded that the shootings in a clash with Ohio National Guardsmen were "not necessary."

Del Corso, the state's guard commander, said he had not seen the 10-page Justice Department summary on which the Beacon Journal said its story was based.

"At least the conclusions as stated in the paper by the reporter are just unbelievable. . . that there were no troops injured, that no stones were thrown and that there was a question of whether there was even a riot," he said.

Del Corso upheld earlier guard assertions that all the guardsmen in the force involved in the shootings had been hit by thrown objects and said two had teeth knocked out.

Portage County Prosecutor Ronald Kane, who is seeking a grand jury investigation into the Kent shootings, said his office would say nothing about the purported report until after it was given to the grand jury.

Kane called the apparent release of the report "irresponsible" and said he was "sick and disgusted" with the Beacon Journal report.

The FBI said in Cleveland today that it had released its report only to the Justice Department and that it did not draw any conclusions of any type in the report.

Del Corso said Jerris Leonard, head of the Justice Department Civil Rights Division, had assured him that the report would be kept under tight secrecy. Leonard signed the 10-page summary of the 7,500-report. The Beacon Journal said its story was based on a 10-page summary of the 7,500-word FBI report and that Leonard signed the summary.

More than 100 FBI agents investigated the shootings that resulted from student harassment of Ohio National Guard troops called to the Northeast Ohio university to quell a disturbance.

Guard officials said about 100 troops were surrounded on three sides, had run out of tear gas and fired justifiably because they felt their lives were in danger. There was no order to fire, the guard said.

The Beacon Journal said a 10-page summary of the report stated that the troops were not surrounded, had not run out of

Launch Hunt For Indicted Weathermen

DETROIT (AP) — Federal agents search underground haunts today for 10 of the 13 members of the radical Weatherman organization indicted on charges of conspiring to build a nationwide revolutionary network to bomb and kill.

Some may have already sought sanctuary in Communist countries, said Asst. Atty. Gen. Will B. Wilson, head of the Justice Department's criminal division.

"If they are in the country, we'll catch them eventually," Wilson said in Washington after the indictments were made public Thursday.

Three of the accused were arrested Thursday.

Heading the list of seven women and six men charged with the plot were Mark Rudd, 23, who led a campus revolt at Columbia University three years ago, and Bernardine Dohrn, 27, former national secretary of the Students for a Democratic Society, both missing.

The Weatherman faction broke away from the SDS a year ago.

The indictment charges the defendants conspired to "use bombs, destructive devices and explosives to destroy police installations and other business and educational buildings throughout the country and to kill and injure persons therein."

The new evidence was obtained by an X-ray telescope carried 102 miles high by an Aerobee rocket launched from White Sands, N.M., missile range in April 1968.

The telescope, in an up-and-down flight lasting only a few minutes, zeroed in on an optically-invisible radio galaxy called "Centaurus-A"—the nearest of the powerful radio-emitting galaxies, the Navy said.

The evidence dispels doubt recently cast on the "Big Bang" theory of the universe's creation, the scientists said.

Amended Section Not Legal

Acting Judge Howard Goldsberry in a decision filed today in Pickaway County Common Pleas Court granted an injunction against the city's one half per cent income tax declaring the ordinance invalid.

The amended version passed by city council in January 1969, under which the tax is now collected, was nullified on the basis of illegal form in repealing the conflicting portions of the old ordinance.

When the new ordinance was approved an additional section was added repealing only generally what did not conform to the new legislation. Under state code, such amendments must cite specifically the portion of the previous bill or ordinance to be replaced.

Local citizen John R. Smith, 1028 Lynwood Ave., filed the charges against the city asking that the municipality be enjoined from enforcing or attempting to enforce the payment of the tax until the legal question be settled. Judge Goldsberry granted the injunction today, disposing of one of the questions of law filed by Smith and approving the second.

IN his suit, Smith declared the ordinance had not been legally passed by council. Under state law he stated that the legislation had to be read fully and completely at least once before it could be approved under suspension of the rules requiring reading on three separate dates.

When passed, the controversial ordinance was read by title only and passed immediately under suspension of the rules.

Goldsberry overruled this point declaring that statutes did provide the city fathers with authority to dispense with the full reading by a three-fourths vote of the members. It passed on all counts with six of seven possible votes, one more than the required quorum.

The new section or "inconsistency clause" added to the amended version because it did not specify the section of the old ordinance passed a month earlier it was repealing and is therefore illegal.

Previous courts have ruled that when a change is made in any legislation the articles being altered must be specified.

As worded now, the clause merely repeals "only those portions of the old ordinance to be found in conflict with the amended version. It does not void the previous ordinance and leaves the question of conflicting actions to the court. According to attorney Kenneth Robbins, who represented Smith in the case, the ordinance would have been legal if the wording of Section 16 had simply repealed the former one.

Robbins himself has not paid the city tax on his income. He claimed that while the tax was under dispute and as he was representing those bringing action against it, it would be incompatible for him to follow such a course.

DAVID Goldschmidt, chairman of the finance committee of city council, said today the city needed the income tax money to operate.

He noted the revenue from the income tax provided over $160,000 annually for the city coffers. Even with the extra costs it has provided the auditor has had to seek an advance draw on anticipated revenue to meet current operating expenses of the city. Only 20 per cent of the money is for the general fund. Eighty per cent is for capital improvements.

Federal Suits Authorized In Mercury Cases

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Justice Department has authorized civil suits against 10 companies whose names were turned in by the Interior Department for allegedly dumping mercury in lakes and rivers of seven states.

The suits will be the first filed by the Justice Department under the little used 1899 Refuse Act, Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell said.

U.S. attorneys in districts where the alleged polluters are located have been authorized to file suits seeking injunctions against continued discharge of mercury and to require the companies to take steps to remedy the effects of past pollution.

"Because mercury pollution is a serious matter, civil injunction proceedings are being authorized instead of the usual criminal action under the criminal Refuse Act, where the penalty is relatively light," said Asst. Atty. Gen. Shiro Kashiwa.

Kashiwa is head of the department's land and natural resources division.

Nixon Makes Western Swing

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon flew west today in a new President-to-people foray taking him to meetings in North Dakota and Utah with assorted Republicans, one Democrat and leaders of the Mormon Church. His plane took off from Andrews Air Force base in suburban Maryland at 11:15 a.m. EDT.

Nixon, reactivating the Western White House near his seaside villa at San Clemente, Calif., for about 10 days, arranged stops along his westward route at Fargo, N.D., and Salt Lake City.

The Fargo layover was for a conference with the governors of five upper plains states—North Dakota, South Dakota, Minnesota, Iowa and Nebraska.

The Chief Executive, who has said he will consider no partisan undertakings in this election year—at least until October—meets with four Republican governors and one Democrat—host governor William L. Guy of North Dakota.

In addition to Guy, the well-known party lined up at Fargo's Hector Airport included three House members from Minnesota and South Dakota—all Republicans.

The President and Mrs. Nixon's visit to Salt Lake City includes a meeting with the First Presidency of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints and other church leaders in the administration building near the famed Mormon Tabernacle.

Before meeting with the churchmen, however, Nixon was to be greeted at Salt Lake City International Airport by Marvyn Turner to seek advance of $12,000 during its last meeting.

Councilman Goldschmidt said today a special finance committee session will be called as soon as possible to discuss what action council may take.

Mayor Richard Gerhardt was out of town today and had not learned of Judge Goldsberry's ruling when The Herald went to press.

City Solicitor O. Charles Hosterman said it will be up to council to decide what the next step will be.

He said the legislators could appeal the ruling and felt that if a proper bond were posted the tax could be collected while the appeal is pending.

He said the other alternative would be to pass a new income tax as an emergency measure under suspension of rules. If passed as an emergency measure, it would not be subject to referendum.

Those persons who filed a proper protest when paying their city income tax will be eligible to receive their money back, the solicitor believes. However, the city will not have to return tax payments to those who paid without filing the proper protest.

Hosterman said only a very few taxpayers had filed the proper protest. The solicitor emphasized the present tax is due and collectable until such a time as a proper journal entry is made and the city notified officially of the ruling by Judge Goldsberry.

Three Men Rob Gas Station

Three men made off with over $300 in cash from the Circleville Oil station, at the intersection of Route 22 and Route 104, at 7:50 p.m. Thursday.

According to Sheriff Dwight Radcliff, the men pulled into the station in a late model sports car and asked the lone attendant, Lawrence E. Davis, 529 E. Main St., for $20 worth of gas.

One man stayed with the auto and the attendant while the other two made their way toward the office. One man stopped to get a drink of water while the other entered the office.

Another car pulled into the station and the woman driver asked for a quart of oil.

When Davis went to the office to get change for the oil, he found the cash register drawer open and the money missing.

At this time, the three men pulled out of the station in their car and fled the scene.

Nasser Accepts U.S. Peace Plan

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Egyptian President Gamal Abdel Nasser says he accepts the latest U.S. proposals for Middle East peace negotiations, but he says they are "only procedural" and contain nothing new.

The proposals, made June 19 by Secretary of State William P. Rogers, call for a temporary Israeli-Egyptian-Jordanian ceasefire of at least 90 days and indirect Arab-Israeli peace talks through U.N. mediator Gunnar V. Jarring.

In a speech in Cairo Thursday night, Nasser said the same proposals have been made in the past by the U.N. Security Council, and "it is Israel who rejects them." He said he does not expect the new American initiative to achieve any results "because of Israel's attitude and foolishness."

Rogers was reported "very encouraged" by Nasser's response, which Soviet Ambassador Anatoly F. Dobrynin transmitted to him.

Israel has not responded formally to Rogers' proposals yet, but Israeli spokesmen have rejected the idea of a temporary ceasefire, contending that it would only make Arab rearmament easier. Itzhak Rabin, the Israeli ambassador to the United States, said in a television interview Sunday that his government favors an "unconditional and unlimited ceasefire."

Nasser, speaking on the 18th anniversary of the revolution that overthrew King Farouk, declared: "We do not want war for war's sake. We want to liberate our land and we want the rights of the Palestine people. We tell Nixon and the American people that we have accepted the American proposals as presented by Rogers."

But he added: "We do not see anything new in them since we have accepted them in the past. It is Israel who rejects them."

He said the Israelis "have thus far refused to mention the word withdrawal, and there was strong opposition in Israel against former Premier Levi Eshkol when he said in a press interview he would withdraw from certain Arab lands."

Nasser reported that during his recent visit to Moscow, Soviet leaders promised to support Egypt "with defensive and offensive weapons to liberate our land." He acknowledged that "Soviet experts are now with us teaching our soldiers" but said there are no Russians fighting with the Egyptians.

He also claimed he had received "a threat and a warning from the United States that we should accept a ceasefire or else Israeli raids would continue." He said that "when modern Soviet weapons arrived in Egypt, a fuss was made," but that no American newspaper has mentioned that "Israel has 72 missile bases for defense."

2-Car Accident Injures Three

Three Lancaster residents were injured in a two-car accident at 5:12 p.m. Thursday on the Circleville-Lockbourne Road in Harrison Township.

Ronald F. Cheadle, 21, suffered lacerations of the chin. Passengers, Beverly Cheadle, 18, had cuts of the forehead and leg and Carla Stump, 13, abrasions of the leg in the mishap. They were referred to a doctor.

According to Pickaway County Sheriff's Deputy Bill Dountz, Roger L. Hardbarger, Ashville, was turning into his drive when the Cheadle auto tried to go around him. Cheadle went into the ditch after sideswiping the Hardbarger car.

Nixon Makes Western Swing

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon flew west today in a new President-to-people foray taking him to meetings in North Dakota and Utah with assorted Republicans, one Democrat and leaders of the Mormon Church.

His plane took off from Andrews Air Force base in suburban Maryland at 11:15 a.m. EDT.

Nixon, reactivating the Western White House near his seaside villa at San Clemente, Calif., for about 10 days, arranged stops along his westward route at Fargo, N.D., and Salt Lake City.

The Fargo layover was for a conference with the governors of five upper plains states—North Dakota, South Dakota, Minnesota, Iowa and Nebraska.

The Chief Executive, who has said he will consider no partisan undertakings in this election year—at least until October—meets with four Republican governors and one Democrat—host governor William L. Guy of North Dakota.

In addition to Guy, the well-known party lined up at Fargo's Hector Airport included three House members from Minnesota and South Dakota—all Republicans.

The President and Mrs. Nixon's visit to Salt Lake City includes a meeting with the First Presidency of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints and other church leaders in the administration building near the famed Mormon Tabernacle.

Before meeting with the churchmen, however, Nixon was to be greeted at Salt Lake City International Airport by Utah Republicans Sen. Wallace Bennett and Rep. Lawrence J. Burton.

Public motorcades were set up in both Fargo and Salt Lake City—a followup to recent successful presidential visits through street crowds in St. Louis and Louisville, Ky.

3 OMVI Cases Heard In Muny Court

In Municipal Court action Friday morning, Judge Sterling M. Lamb heard three cases of operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of alcohol.

Jeffery D. Clifton, 21, 905 Circle Drive, was fined $150 plus court costs, three days in jail and had his license suspended for six months.

Francis Shoemaker, 50, Grove City, was fined $200 and handed a five day jail term with her license suspended for one year on a second offense of OMVI.

Gary E. Detty, 41, Shady Acres Trailer Court, was found guilty of his second offense of OMVI and fined $200 plus costs and sentenced to five days in the county jail and had his license suspended for one year.

Three Men Rob Gas Station

Three men made off with over $300 in cash from the Circleville Oil station, at the intersection of Route 22 and Route 104, at 7:50 p.m. Thursday.

According to Sheriff Dwight Radcliffe, the men pulled into the station in a late model sports car and asked the lone attendant, Lawrence E. Davis, 529 E. Main St., for $2 worth of gas.

One man stayed with the auto and the attendant while the other two made their way toward the office. One man stopped to get a drink of water while the other entered the office.

Another car pulled into the station and the woman driver asked for a quart of oil.

When Davis went to the office to get change for the oil, he found the cash register drawer open and the money missing.

At this time, the three men pulled out of the station in their car and fled the scene.

Councilman Goldschmidt said today a special finance committee session will be called as soon as possible to discuss what action council may take.

Mayor Richard Gerhardt was out of town today and had not learned of Judge Goldsberry's ruling when The Herald went to press.

City Solicitor O. Charles Hosterman said it will be up to council to decide what the next step will be.

HE said the legislators could appeal the ruling and felt that if a proper bond were posted the tax could be collected while the appeal is pending.

He said the other alternative would be to pass a new income tax as an emergency measure under suspension of rules. If passed as an emergency measure, it would not be subject to referendum.

Those persons who filed a proper protest when paying their city income tax will be eligible to receive their money back, the solicitor believes. However, the city will not have to return tax payments to those who paid without filing the proper protest.

Hosterman said only a very few taxpayers had filed the proper protest. The solicitor emphasized the present tax is due and collectable until such a time as a proper journal entry is made and the city notified officially of the ruling by Judge Goldsberry.

Brumfield Ordered To Pay $18,000 Support Payments

Clyde Brumfield, extradited from Roswell, N. M., appeared before Judge William Ammer in Common Pleas Court Thursday. He has been held in the county jail following charges by his former wife as being in arrears of child support payments totaling $18,000.

Brumfield was placed on probation for five years and ordered to pay $3,000 of the total amount immediately. An additional $3,000 payment is to be made within the next 90 days.

Beginning Aug. 1, he was ordered to pay $45 weekly in support of the four children.

Sockman Sent To Guidance Center

Alfred Sockman, Mt. Sterling, was ordered sent to Paint Valley Guidance Center, Chillicothe, for examination Thursday by Judge William Ammer.

Sockman had been charged by his wife with failure to support his two minor children. He appeared before the April Grand Jury and was committed to Lima State Hospital where he was declared legally insane. Following renewed charges filed again by his wife, asking support of minor children, the judge ordered that he be sent to Paint Valley for examination.

He was delivered there Friday morning by sheriff's deputies.

Nasser Accepts U.S. Peace Plan

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Egyptian President Gamal Abdel Nasser says he accepts the latest U.S. proposals for Middle East peace negotiations, but he says they are "only procedural" and contain nothing new.

The proposals, made June 19 by Secretary of State William P. Rogers, call for a temporary Israeli-Egyptian-Jordanian ceasefire of at least 90 days and indirect Arab-Israeli peace talks through U.N. mediator Gunnar V. Jarring.

In a speech in Cairo Thursday night, Nasser said the same proposals have been made in the past by the U.N. Security Council, and "it is Israel who rejects them." He said he does not expect the new American initiative to achieve any results "because of Israel's attitude and foolishness."

Rogers was reported "very encouraged" by Nasser's response, which Soviet Ambassador Anatoly F. Dobrynin transmitted to him.

Israel has not responded formally to Rogers' proposals yet, but Israeli spokesmen have rejected the idea of a temporary ceasefire, contending that it would only make Arab rearmament easier. Itzhak Rabin, the Israeli ambassador to the United States, said in a television interview Sunday that his government favors an "unconditional and unlimited ceasefire."

Nasser, speaking on the 18th anniversary of the revolution that overthrew King Farouk, declared: "We do not want war for war's sake. We want to liberate our land and we want the rights of the Palestine people. We tell Nixon and the American people that we have accepted the American proposals as presented by Rogers."

But he added: "We do not see anything new in them since we have accepted them in the past. It is Israel who rejects them."

He said the Israelis "have thus far refused to mention the word withdrawal, and there was strong opposition in Israel against former Premier Levi Eshkol when he said in a press interview he would withdraw from certain Arab lands."

Nasser reported that during his recent visit to Moscow, Soviet leaders promised to support Egypt "with defensive and offensive weapons to liberate our land." He acknowledged that "Soviet experts are now with us teaching our soldiers" but said there are no Russians fighting with the Egyptians.

He also claimed he had received "a threat and a warning from the United States that we should accept a ceasefire or else Israeli raids would continue." He said that "when modern Soviet weapons arrived in Egypt, a fuss was made," but that no American newspaper has mentioned that "Israel has 72 missile bases for defense."

A Day At YMCA Camp

PIRATES HUNT — Tim Sines and his "band of Pirates" hunt for "swimmin' things" along the creek at the YMCA Day Camp on the Lyman Penn farm in Saltcreek Twp. Sines' Pirates have netted a few frogs and some tadpoles for their efforts this week. Day Campers stalked the beasts with milk cartons and paper cups.

Pickaway County YMCA's Day Camp is in its third year of operation on the Lyman Penn farm in Saltcreek Twp. The Day Camp has expanded in those three years from a clearing in the woods to a camp of many activities.

"Y" camp, under the direction of Harold Hewitt, now employs six counselors and has had over 125 children, ages 6 through 12 years, enrolled in the eight day periods this summer. About 60 per cent of the children are sponsored by industry, businesses and individuals.

Counselors Melody Shea, Sandy Greenlee, Phil Pike, Tim Sines, Becky Fenstermaker, and Karen Reid teach the youngsters crafts, nature study, fishing, swimming, archery, BB gun shooting and safety, and physical education.

Fishing facilities are provided by Girl Scout Camp Miska and swimming facilities are provided by Mrs. Richard Jones. Most equipment for the camp was supplied by camp fees and by donations.

Children enrolling in the eight day program arrive at the camp around 9:30 a.m. Monday through Friday and are home by 4 p.m. The campers are treated to one overnight stay per period.

CRAFT CLASS — The girls at "Y" Day Camp combine imagination with skill in their craft classes. The girls, with their counselor Karen Reid, collected wheat seeds, dried them and dyed them different colors. The girls were making different kinds of bugs from the seeds and old egg cartons this week.

HOME ON THE RANGE — Melody Shea and Sandy Greenlee share the BB Gun range with their crews at the YMCA Day Camp. The boys are taught shooting safety first and then how to shoot the guns. The BB range is one of the favorites with the older boys.

FISHIN' AROUND — Becky Fenstermaker's owls took time out for some fishing at "Y" camp before lunch. The fishing facilities are supplied by the Girl Scouts Camp Miska but the fishing gear is all homemade. Each camper gets a period at the fishin' hole and in the swimming pond each day.

RAIDERS ROMP — Phil Pike and his raiders take a nature hike in the woods on the Lyman Penn farm. Pike points out a Shag Bark Hickory to his raiders. The boys are also clearing another new campsite for the "Y" camp.

Pickaway Grange Report

NEBRASKA GRANGE

Nebraska Grange met in regular session July 21, with the program in charge of the Women's Activity Chairman, Mrs. Chester Noecker.

A film entitled "House Traps" was enjoyed by those present. This film showed dangerous hazards about the home and how they should be avoided.

The baking and sewing contests sponsored by the Ohio State Grange were conducted at this meeting. The baking contest consisted of cloverleaf rolls and Thelma Hines placed first with Mrs. David Hedges placing second. The sewing contest was a princess style dress and was won by Mrs. Chester Noecker. Gladys Hines placed second and Mrs. David Hedges third. Mrs. William Winter judged the various entries.

Plans were completed for serving at the Pickaway County Fair on Aug. 4. The men will be in charge of the fair gates the same day.

As the next regular meeting night will be during fair week, the meeting has been cancelled. The Grange will again convene on Aug. 18 at which time Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Barr and family will head the August committee.

Carl Bennett reported having visited the Pickaway County Community Actions Office and commented on same.

Delicious refreshments were served in the dining room by Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Recobs and

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Shoemaker.

SCIOTO VALLEY GRANGE

Scioto Valley Grange met July 14 with Worthy Master Harold Bumgarner presiding.

The third and fourth degrees were given to Mrs. Ada Fausnaugh and Bert Eddy, who had received the first and second degrees at his home Grange and took the opportunity of receiving the third and fourth while visiting our Grange.

Mrs. Leona Berger read a communication from the Pickaway County Red Cross Chapter requesting various items needed to help the servicemen stationed in Vietnam.

Leona also asked for donations of pies and cakes to be served on Wednesday, Aug. 5 at the Pickaway County Fair.

A communication was read from the State Master James Rose concerning insurance benefits available to Grange members from the Continental Casualty Co. of Chicago, Ill.

A communication from our District Deputy Paul Dunkle was read concerning the election of the delegate and alternate for the State Convention being held in October.

Also reminding us about the Grange booth for the Fair and men to handle receipts at the entrance gates.

The Grange voted to give a cash donation to the Pickaway County Red Cross for their request for the servicemen in Vietnam.

Mrs. Phyllis Russell, chairman of the Pickaway County Fair Booth, stated the plans were completed and asked for help to erect it. She received several volunteers in answer to her request.

Mrs. Paul Peters was reported as being very ill and is in Grant Hospital, Columbus, Ohio. Mrs. Peters has been a faithful Grange member for many years and all of us are sorry she is in such a critical condition.

We were honored with the presence of Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Eddy and family from the State of New York who were guests of Mr. and Mrs. John Dowler.

They are quite a talented family. Eddy played some old time music on the violin accompanied by his daughter Margaret at the piano.

Margaret and Bert favored us with two numbers, namely "The Lord's Prayer" and "Father Lead Me." Their instruments were the clarinet and saxophone. All present enjoyed hearing these musical numbers, and meeting such a fine family.

Mrs. Chester Fausnaugh and Mrs. Fern Lutz served pies of various kinds for refreshments.

Mayor's Report

By Mayor
Richard L. Gerhardt

Last week City Council enacted a Zoning Ordinance which revised the old Zoning Regulations which had become outdated, not having been changed for around 20 years.

The revisions resulted from the two years of study and tireless effort by The Circleville Planning Commission in developing a Comprehensive Master Plan for Circleville. It will ensure that every person's property values are protected by only allowing similar or compatible uses to be in the same district, that is residential homes next to residential homes and industrial plants next to industrial plants. Without zoning, an industrial plant or a junk yard could be established next to a residential home.

The Planning Commission and City Council have held numerous public hearings on not only the Zoning Regulations but also on the other parts of The Master Plan, the utilities study, community facilities study and subdivision regulations. After these other parts are also accepted, Circleville will be fully equipped to meet the situations of increased growth and development and to solve them before they become problems.

The new Zoning ordinance contains for the most part the same districts as previously, but where changes were needed, they were made. In addition, it is more specific, yet gives more flexibility with individual situations than was possible under the old ordinance.

The same types of zoning districts, residential, commercial and industrial, were retained, but instead of just lumping all such uses together, the new ordinance calls for several districts for the same use. For example there is a light industrial district and a heavy industrial district to reflect the difference between the two.

There are four different residential districts, two apartment districts, four commercial districts in addition to several mixed use districts. By having various types of districts, (residential, industrial, etc.) and several similar districts of the same type (light industrial, heavy industrial etc.) protects the owner of property from having an undesirable use of adjacent land spring up beside him, yet gives the freedom to use his land as he wishes in a similar or compatible way with his neighboring property owner.

In addition to Circleville, Ashville, Williamsport, New Holland, Commercial Point, Tarlton and fourteen (14 out of the fifteen (15) townships in Pickaway County have some type of zoning regulations. The Pickaway County Regional Planning Commission have indicated that they hope to develop a Master Plan for Pickaway County.

If there are questions concerning the new zoning ordinance, you should contact a member of The Circleville Planning Commission or The City Service Director. Copies of the ordinance will be available for purchase soon.

Taft Says Voters Won't Be Fooled

GRANVILLE, Ohio (AP) — U.S. Rep. Robert Taft Jr., the Republican candidate for the U. S. Senate, said Thursday night voters will reject attempts by Democrats to blame Republicans for America's inflation.

Taft, in a prepared speech before Licking County GOP members, said the Democratic Party "conveniently forgets the over $600 billion in deficit spending during the Kennedy-Johnson years."

Showers Linger As Becky Leaves Weather Charts

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Fair and generally pleasant weather favored a large part of the nation today but showers lingered in scattered areas from the southern Rockies to the eastern Great Lakes region.

Rainfall was light and thundershowers for the most part were not severe. Effects of tropical storm Becky diminished, and the Weather Bureau said the storm system no longer was on the nation's weather map.

An inch or more of rain had soaked portions of the central Appalachians through Thursday as Becky drifted northward.

Milder weather fanned over most of the Midcontinent after several days of recorded July chilliness, but a new mass of cold air spread into the northern Rockies.

Temperatures before dawn ranged from 40 at Lewistown, Mont., to 93 at Needles and Blythe, Calif.

PIRATES HUNT — Tim Sines and his "band of Pirates" hunt for "swimmin' things" along the creek at the YMCA Day Camp on the Lyman Penn farm in Saltcreek Twp. Sines' Pirates have netted a few frogs and some tadpoles for their efforts this week. Day Campers stalked the beasts with milk cartons and paper cups.

HOME ON THE RANGE — Melody Shea and Sandy Greenlee share the BB Gun range with their crows at the YMCA Day Camp. The boys are taught shooting safety first and then how to shoot the guns. The BB range is one of the favorites with the older boys.

Pickaway County YMCA's Day Camp is in its third year of operation on the Lyman Penn farm in Saltcreek Twp. The Day Camp has expanded in those three years from a clearing in the woods to a camp of many activities.

"Y" camp, under the direction of Harold Hewitt, now employs six counselors and has had over 125 children, ages 6 through 12 years, enrolled in the eight day periods this summer. About 60 per cent of the children are sponsored by industry, businesses and individuals.

Counselors Melody Shea, Sandy Greenlee, Phil Pike, Tim Sines, Becky Fenstermaker, and Karen Reid teach the youngsters crafts, nature study, fishing, swimming, archery, BB gun shooting and safety, and physical education.

Fishing facilities are provided by Girl Scout Camp Miska and swimming facilities are provided by Mrs. Richard Jones. Most equipment for the camp was supplied by camp fees and by donations.

Children enrolling in the eight day program arrive at the camp around 9:30 a.m. Monday through Friday and are home by 4 p.m. The campers are treated to one overnight stay per period.

CRAFT CLASS — The girls at "Y" Day Camp combine imagination with skill in their craft classes. The girls, with their counselor Karen Reid, collected wheat seeds, dried them and dyed them different colors. The girls were making different kinds of bugs from the seeds and old egg cartons this week.

FISHIN' AROUND — Becky Fenstermaker's owls took time out for some fishing at "Y" camp before lunch. The fishing facilities are supplied by the Girl Scouts Camp Miska but the fishing gear is all homemade. Each camper gets a period at the fishin' hole and in the swimming pond each day.

RAIDERS ROMP — Phil Pike and his raiders take a nature hike in the woods on the Lyman Penn farm. Pike points out a Shag Bark Hickory to his raiders. The boys are also clearing another new campsite for the "Y" camp.

Pickaway Grange Report

NEBRASKA GRANGE

Nebraska Grange met in regular session July 21, with the program in charge of the Women's Activity Chairman, Mrs. Chester Noecker.

A film entitled "House Traps" was enjoyed by those present. This film showed dangerous hazards about the home and how they should be avoided.

The baking and sewing contests sponsored by the Ohio State Grange were conducted at this meeting. The baking contest consisted of cloverleaf rolls and Thelma Hines placed first with Mrs. David Hedges placing second. The sewing contest was a princess style dress and was won by Mrs. Chester Noecker. Gladys Hines placed second and Mrs. David Hedges third. Mrs. William Winter judged the various entries.

Plans were completed for serving at the Pickaway County Fair on Aug. 4. The men will be in charge of the fair gates the same day.

As the next regular meeting night will be during fair week, the meeting has been cancelled. The Grange will again convene on Aug. 18 at which time Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Barr and family will head the August committee.

Carl Bennett reported having visited the Pickaway County Community Actions Office and commented on same.

Delicious refreshments were served in the dining room by Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Recobs and

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Shoemaker.

SCIOTO VALLEY GRANGE

Scioto Valley Grange met July 14 with Worthy Master Harold Bumgarner presiding.

The third and fourth degrees were given to Mrs. Ada Fausnaugh and Bert Eddy, who had received the first and second degrees at his home Grange and took the opportunity of receiving the third and fourth while visiting our Grange.

Mrs. Leona Berger read a communication from the Pickaway County Red Cross Chapter requesting various items needed to help the servicemen stationed in Vietnam.

Leona also asked for donations of pies and cakes to be served on Wednesday, Aug. 5 at the Pickaway County Fair.

A communication was read from the State Master James Rose concerning insurance benefits available to Grange members from the Continental Casualty Co. of Chicago, Ill.

A communication from our District Deputy Paul Dunkle was read concerning the election of the delegate and alternate for the State Convention being held in October.

Also reminding us about the Grange booth for the Fair and men to handle receipts at the entrance gates.

The Grange voted to give a cash donation to the Pickaway County Red Cross for their request for the servicemen in Vietnam.

Mrs. Phyllis Russell, chairman of the Pickaway County Fair Booth, stated the plans were completed and asked for help to erect it. She received several volunteers in answer to her request.

Mrs. Paul Peters was reported as being very ill and is in Grant Hospital, Columbus, Ohio. Mrs. Peters has been a faithful Grange member for many years and all of us are sorry she is in such a critical condition.

We were honored with the presence of Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Eddy and family from the State of New York who were guests of Mr. and Mrs. John Dowler. They are quite a talented family.

Eddy played some old time music on the violin accompanied by his daughter Margaret at the piano.

Margaret and Bert favored us with two numbers, namely "The Lord's Prayer" and "Father Lead Me." Their instruments were the clarinet and saxophone. All present enjoyed hearing these musical numbers, and meeting such a fine family.

Mrs. Chester Fausnaugh and Mrs. Fern Lutz served pies of various kinds for refreshments.

Mayor's Report

By Mayor
Richard L. Gerhardt

Last week City Council enacted a Zoning Ordinance which revised the old Zoning Regulations which had become outdated, not having been changed for around 20 years.

The revisions resulted from the two years of study and tireless effort by The Circleville Planning Commission in developing a Comprehensive Master Plan for Circleville. It will ensure that every person's property values are protected by only allowing similar or compatible uses to be in the same district, that is residential homes next to residential homes and industrial plants next to industrial plants. Without zoning, an industrial plant or a junk yard could be established next to a residential home.

The Planning Commission and City Council have held numerous public hearings on not only the Zoning Regulations but also on the other parts of The Master Plan, the utilities study, community facilities study and subdivision regulations. After these other parts are also accepted, Circleville will be fully equipped to meet the situations of increased growth and development and to solve them before they become problems.

The new Zoning ordinance contains for the most part the same districts as previously, but where changes were needed, they were made. In addition, it is more specific, yet gives more flexibility with individual situations than was possible under the old ordinance. The same types of zoning districts, residential, commercial and industrial, were retained, but instead of just lumping all such uses together, the new ordinance calls for several districts for the same use. For example there is a light industrial district and a heavy industrial district to

GRANVILLE, Ohio (AP) —U.S. Rep. Robert Taft Jr., the Republican candidate for the U. S. Senate, said Thursday night voters will reject attempts by Democrats to blame Republicans for America's inflation.

Taft, in a prepared speech before Licking County GOP members, said the Democratic Party "conveniently forgets the over $600 billion in deficit spending during the Kennedy-Johnson years."

The Business World

By JOHN CUNIFF

NEW YORK (AP) — This wayward economy might begin to straighten itself out quickly if ordinary Americans shared the Nixon administration's interpretation of current events.

In recent days the President and his aides have begun talking it up, assuring the citizenry that the worst has been reached and past, and that now we may raise our sights and concentrate our efforts on the new expansion.

The most encouraging interpretations are being put on some pretty discouraging facts:

—Prices are 6 per cent higher than a year ago, but we are reminded that they rose at only a 4.8 per cent annual rate in June.

—Unemployment continues to rise, perhaps to 5 per cent, but we are told this is as much from expansion in the number of available workers as it is from layoffs.

Interest rates should start declining, we are told, but the fact is they are at century-high levels. Mortgage rates, too, may have reached their peak, it is said, but that peak is still Everest-like for prospective home buyers.

The economy has, by many measures, reached a very depressed state. But why look down when the sky is above? We are told, therefore, that the economy "has bottomed out," that we "will definitely see the economy turning up."

Perhaps this outlook really isn't a subjective interpretation made by men who must prove their policies are working. Maybe this is really the way things are. Could this really be the watershed?

A lot of consumers don't think so. Polls show them in a saving rather than a spending mood, pessimistic about the general outlook and concerned about their investments, their jobs, their ability to cope with inflation plus recession.

So? What does a psychological disposition on the part of ordinary Americans have to do with the economy's future? How is a mood related to the financial fortunes of business and government?

In this way: The expected upturn is to a great extent predicated on the assumption that consumer spending is due to increase sharply for a great range of products and services. But maybe the consumer isn't ready to spend.

Why not? His rate of savings has risen lately to more than 7 per cent; he's got the money—the elimination of the surtax has added a few more dollars to his paycheck. And some of those wage increases have been pretty hefty, too.

True. But studies of consumer behavior in recent years, mainly by Dr. George Katona of the University of Michigan, have demonstrated that the consumer may have the ability to buy but not the desire to buy.

In other words, depending upon many factors, he may stuff his mattress with dollars or he may spend them. He may even be willing, if he feels the future is bright, to buy when he doesn't have money, to borrow on his future.

What determines his willingness? So many factors that all cannot be listed. But among the major ones are his job security, his earnings outlook, his confidence in economic policy, the state of the war.

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

A BARBER whose mind was on the third race at Aqueduct nicked a customer five times while giving him a shave. Still hoping for a generous tip, he asked the bleeding victim, "May I wrap your head in a hot towel?"

"Thank you, no," grunted the customer. "I'll carry it home under my arm."

The tragic death of Herb Shriner in a Florida automobile crash meant a loss to the American public of a friendly, homespun comedian who never once descended to obscenities or double entendres to win his full quota of laughs. Here are a few of his more memorable observations: "Back home in Indiana we had a fellow who called himself a doctor of law, and if anybody ever doctored the laws, he sure was the one." "The first big city I ever saw was Indianapolis. It wasn't for me. I'll still take the good old U.S.A." "Some doctors treat you for pneumonia and you die from measles. Not my doctor! When HE treats you for pneumonia, you die from pneumonia." "One of my neighbors has a watch that's lacked an hour hand now for two years. He's waiting for something else to bust on it so he can have the whole thing fixed at once." "There's a lady in our town who's stopped having children because she's run out of names—to call her husband."

Miss Annabelle confides that she knew the very moment that the mail strike was over. She started receiving her copies of Collier's Magazine again.

Speaking Of Your Health

By Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

It is a never ending source of wonderment that hospitals function as magnificently as they do. As physicians and surgeons we grow to accept good and accurate medical care, and almost take it for granted because we see it so often. I scrub my hands and arms before an operation and then walk into the operating room and expect and do find hundreds of instruments in their proper place, completely sterilized and ready down to the finest details for safe surgery. Years of such encounters, I must confess, makes all of us take it for granted.

Yesterday, for the first time in many years I had occasion to go down to the basement and sub-basement of my hospital and actually was amazed by the activity going on. Electricians, plumbers, painters, air-condition specialists, firemen were all busy performing their individual duties to give safety to the hospital. In another area, office personnel and social service workers were occupied with Medicare and Medicaid programs and arranging for convalescent homes and handling the myriad non-medical aspects of hospital routine.

I was brought up sharply when I found a young dietitian crying because she had been screamed at by an impatient patient because the toast was soggy. Of course, seems too far to petty to write about, but often it represents an attitude of patients who really believe that a hospital is a hotel that specializes in gourmet food and non-medical pampering.

It is understandable that the emotional stress of being a patient makes them and their families somewhat irritable. But thoughtless, unreasonable demands of the hospital personnel makes everyone tense and reduces the efficiency of the institution.

A hospital is not the ideal place for a French cuisine. It is not an ideal place for a holiday. A hospital serves a single purpose — to combine all medical forces to again return the patient to good health.

Hospitals are remarkable institutions built with unselfish devotion. They function efficiently because of the dedication of the under-staffed and often under-paid members of the total health team.

Every physician and surgeon recognizes that the nursing staff plays one of the most vital roles in the recovery of the patient. Nurses, highly trained in the art of treatment are given added burdens that interfere with their proper functioning. I have noticed impatience, irrationality and annoyance directed at nurses because the flowers have not been properly arranged by them. Nurses are not a replacement for household servants who, too, are not the chattels of private possession.

Considerate patients and their families know that maximum kindness can be elicited from nurses and all attending personnel by appreciating the complexities and difficulties of running a hospital.

It is true that hospital costs have risen to astronomical heights, and will continue to rise as the complex needs of patients are being met. This adds considerably to the worry and emotional heights, and will continue to rise as the complex needs of patients are being met. This adds considerably to the worry and emotional stress of patients.

It is imperative that hospital patients and their families pause to think about the unbelievable number of people who play a medical and paramedical part in the recovery from illness. Only then can they contribute to the smoothness of the total hospital process.

Bleeding gums may be due to some general body condition. This deserves examination, not neglect.

Peace Protest Video Taped By Policemen

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP)—Toledo police video taped a peace demonstration last February as a precaution in the event violence erupted, the U.S. District Court here was told Wednesday.

John Burkhart, the city's chief legal counsel, said in a defense brief the taping was "a reasonable exercise of police power" designed to protect government property, innocent bystanders and the protestors themselves.

The demonstration in front of the federal office building was sponsored by the Student-Faculty Peace Committee of the University of Toledo.

A suit filed a few days after the rally charged the police taping was designed to harass, demean and intimidate the protestors.

Why Are Probes Duds?

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

What is the matter with investigatory commissions? They bring witnesses to Washington to mouth clichés, to grab headlines for partisan advantage, and to reinforce stereotypes that have no more pure value in them than a Lyndon Johnson 25-cent piece. There was the National Advisory Commission on Civil Disorders which spawned the Kerner Report, a superficial document that blamed rioting on such things as substandard housing without ever tracing the conditions in our slums to the agricultural upheavals of the Thirties, when New Deal farm crop limitation policy forced thousands of Negroes to trek into the big cities where there was no room for them. Now there is the President's Commission on Campus Unrest, set up to dig into the psychological background of the Kent State University killings and other events of the recent spring. Judging from the statements made by the first witnesses, Chairman William Scranton is fated to preside over another dud. To steal a title from a Cole Porter song, it's just one of those things.

It could hardly be otherwise, for the commission is trying to come up with answers that have eluded philosophers ever since the western world became embroiled in its first great fratricidal war in 1914. Our society has been crumbling for a long time and the society includes its schools. There was campus unrest in the Twenties, when we mocked Woodrow Wilson for his quaint belief that he had led the U.S. into a war to end war. There was campus unrest in the Thirties, when the depression hit. Youth, ever since I have been around, has had an identity crisis and to blame the crisis only on the Vietnamese War or on Cambodia or on the rhetoric of Vice President Spiro Agnew is as shallow a performance as one could imagine.

"The truly guilty party," said J. Otis Cochran, chairman of the Black American Law Students Association, "is the Nixon-Agnew Administration... what hope is there for advocates of peaceful protest if each new week brings another ill-conceived attack from Agnew's thesaurus of invectives?" The only trouble with this explanation is that no one had ever heard of Agnew when the Age of the Campus Rebellion dawned at Berkeley. I happen to have in my desk a Research Institute of America study of campus dissatisfactions, dated September 25, 1967 (remember, it was "Lyndon Johnson's war" then). The RIA survey was made by Jeffrey St. John, a competent journalist who spent many weeks talking to college students about their "unrest." One of the big youthful gripes at the time was the "adults lacked conviction." The students wanted to admire people who "stand for something," and, looking about them, they found such characters few and far between.

The campus crisis of 1967, so Mr. St. John concluded, was part of a bigger crisis of the spirit. What youth wanted "from the adult world — on the job or off — is direction, action, plausible and rational reasons for policies, honesty and clear-cut principles." It wasn't getting these things from permissive parents, or from economists who, believing that all things are relative, doubted the very existence of first principles, or from sociologists who had never tried to determine what human constants might underlie the diversity of tribal customs.

In brief, youth, in 1967, was lacking in the self-esteem that comes from knowing who you are, where you are, what you stand for, and what you are capable of doing. The colleges, in 1967, weren't noticeably geared to helping students get hold of themselves before taking on the bigger job of reforming society. The facilities weren't teaching history with reference to the balance of power, they had let economics degenerate from a study of principles into a business of manipulating statistics (it had become mathematical, not something that had, first of all, to reckon with the human values that dictate choice), they had dropped the idea that a western university should uphold western values, or that a Greco-Roman-Christian civilization should begin by studying its origins before trying to relate itself to other cultures.

Spiro Agnew had absolutely nothing to do with the 1967 scene, which is still the scene of 1970. The phenomenon that we know as "Kent State" was just a continuation of the Berkeley of Mario Savio or the Columbia of Mark Rudd, where it was a matter of pure luck that no innocent bystander happened to get in the way of a lethal missile of one kind or another.

It so happens that Spiro Agnew is one person who has "conviction," which is something that students have been searching for. As for President Nixon, he wants to end the war without surrendering to the Soviets (who would certainly kill the American university as we have known it). To blame our campus "unrest" on the Nixon-Agnew Administration is the rawest kind of cop-out. It our university presidents can't see that, they aren't capable of seeing anything, and we might as well close their institutions down.

40 YEARS AGO

A 27-year-old mother and her 14-month-old child died of burns caused by a kerosene explosion in the kitchen of their farmhouse three miles south of New Holland. The kerosene exploded while the mother was attempting to light a fire in the stove. Twenty-three years earlier the same vicinity was the scene of a like occurrence when the mother of Harry Mitchell and three of her children were killed by an explosion of kerosene.

Mr. and Mrs. Pearl "Doc" Spindler, Toledo natives, were jailed following a chase through Circleville which aroused nearly the entire south end shortly after midnight. Deputies noticed the auto driven recklessly by Spindler and gave chase. In the minutes that followed, several attempts were made by Spindler to wreck the sheriff's car and two large jugs containing liquor were thrown out of the auto. After catching the couple, the deputy sped back up the street to try to obtain enough evidence to convict the pair. He found a jug, but all the contents had run from it so he used a cup to scoop part of it from the street.

The city was sweltering under the hottest sun in the state according to official reports. The temperature reached a high of 109 degrees July 20 and was expected to pass the 112 mark the next day.

The intense heat had citizens worrying about the city water supply but Harry B. Denman, manager of the local water service, reported the water supply was good. Although the Darby Creek was at a lower level than it had been in anyone's memory, the waterworks received an adequate supply.

Miss Martha Bartley, judged the winner in Circleville's beauty pageant travelled to Russell's Point, Ohio, to take part in the contest for the title "Miss Ohio." She was among the top 18 in the state competition.

Bus tours following "Ohio's

Most Scenic Route" were scheduled by Ohio Scenic Stages Inc. Leaving Circleville from the American Hotel, a person could travel to Athens by way of Laurelville, South Bloomingville, Ash Cave, Carbondale and Marshfield for only $2.70 round trip.

A diary was found belonging to Rev. Joseph A. Roof, pastor of the St. Paul Lutheran Church for 20 years. It was a record of the long drought experienced by Roundtown and Pickaway County from June, 1838 to May, 1839. During that time "not enough rain fell to moisten the earth two inches." This discovery was made at a time when a bad dry spell was being experienced by Pickaway Countians almost 100 years later.

Four reports of fires, three of them great ones, were reported all during one afternoon and evening. The homestead of Mrs. Flora Bryant, located one mile east of New Holland suffered almost half of the total estimate of $25,000 damages set. Destroyed in that blaze were a large barn, double corn crib, garage, tool and feed shed and many tools and farm implements. Other fires occurred in a barn at the Joe Hedges Farm at Cedar Hill Pike, the barn of Mrs. Adam Rhil, near Meade and a straw stack at the residence of C. E. Brown near Atlanta. Rainfall was practically extinct that summer making the fire hazard extremely great.

A pair of hummingbirds constructed a nest in the frieze at the front of the courthouse and were often seen flying in and out of the rooms of the building.

Circleville Kiwanis Club and Rotary sponsored a special air program featuring the Goodyear blimp, "The Vigilant," the Sohio II, a Standard Oil Co. plane and the Curtis-Robin plane. The Air Day was held near the landing field on the Darbyville Pike. One reason for the show was to encourage the city to build an airstrip for commercial and military use.

According To Boyle

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — It isn't much fun being popular.

The trouble with being popular is that the more popular you become the less you trust yourself—and the less people really think of you.

At one time the desire to be popular was part of the American dream. Everyone not only wanted to be rich — he also wanted to be well-liked.

It turned out, however, that this mass attempt at popularity was self-defeating.

For one thing, it was too easy. To be popular with another person all you have to do is smile at the right time when he tells a joke, always give him good news, have a lower income, a smaller car, and a homelier wife than he has, reach in your pocket when he wants to borrow money, and never interrupt him with laughter while he is giving his opinion about anything.

While everybody knows what to do to become popular, few know anymore what to do to become unpopular. You have to learn how to say or do the wrong thing at the right time.

For example, here are a few remarks guaranteed to make you memorably disliked and therefore interestingly unpopular:

"No, it's not your turn. I was here first."

"These are nice snapshots of your children. Have any of them graduated from reform school yet?"

"Well, it's nice that you took off the 30 pounds, but personally

I thought you looked healthier when you didn't have that gaunt look."

"You can see my hole card anytime you're ready—but it'll cost you another twenty bucks."

"Let's have lunch together sometime when you're back on an expense account."

"For you to get a merit raise, two things will have to happen that haven't happened yet—this firm will have to start making some money, and you'll have to start showing some merit."

"It's not a bad painting for a beginner. Did you do it with your left or your right hand?"

"Here, let me pour in another double dollop of vermouth. It's only gin we're short of."

"Of course, if you feel better that's the main thing, but frankly I don't know anyone who's going to that psychiatrist this year."

"We thought we could stay with you only a couple of days, but we're having so much fun I guess you'll get to put up with us for the rest of the week."

Today In History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Friday, July 24, the 205th day of 1970. There are 160 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1946, the first underwater test of an atomic bomb was made by the United States off Bikini Atoll in the Pacific.

On this date: In 1704, the British captured Gibraltar during the War of the Spanish Succession.

In 1783, Simon Bolivar, the Venezuelan patriot known as the liberator of South America was born in Caracas.

In 1847, the Mormon leader, Brigham Young, arrived at Great Salt Lake Valley in Utah. The event is celebrated in Utah as Pioneer Day.

In 1929, President Herbert Hoover proclaimed the Kellogg-Briand Pact renouncing war as an instrument of national policy.

In 1959, U.S. Vice President Richard M. Nixon and Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev held their famous "kitchen debate" at an American exposition in Moscow.

In 1967, Pope Paul VI flew to Turkey for the first papal visit to that country in more than 12 centuries.

Ten years ago: Republican leaders were hammering out a party platform prior to a national convention in Chicago.

Five years ago: Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. was leading rallies and church services in a civil rights campaign in Chicago.

One year ago: The Apollo 11 astronauts returned from man's first flight to the moon, making a safe splashdown in the Pacific.

Say Hamilton Count Wrong

HAMILTON, Ohio (AP) — The City Planning Department thinks that Hamilton's population is larger than a preliminary census indicates and has launched a drive to have all uncounted persons counted.

"We feel that at an absolute minimum, the city population is at least 78,000," planning director Walter Blair said Wednesday.

The census shows Hamilton's population at 64,058.

Through the news media, Blair urged residents who did not receive census forms to notify the department. He also asked ones who have received forms but not sent them in, to do so.

"As our citizens are paying federal taxes, we want to make sure they are getting their fair share of return of these taxes," Blair said, pointing out that some federal funds are allocated to metropolitan areas on a population basis.

The Business World

By JOHN CUNIFF

NEW YORK (AP) — This wayward economy might begin to straighten itself out quickly if ordinary Americans shared the Nixon administration's interpretation of current events.

In recent days the President and his aides have begun talking it up, assuring the citizenry that the worst has been reached and past, and that now we may raise our sights and concentrate our efforts on the new expansion.

The most encouraging interpretations are being put on some pretty discouraging facts: —Prices are 6 per cent higher than a year ago, but we are reminded that they rose at only a 4.8 per cent annual rate in June. —Unemployment continues to rise, perhaps to 5 per cent, but we are told this is as much from expansion in the number of available workers as it is from layoffs.

Interest rates should start declining, we are told, but the fact is they are at century-high levels. Mortgage rates, too, may have reached their peak, it is said, but that peak is still Everest-like for prospective home buyers.

The economy has, by many measures, reached a very depressed state. But why look down when the sky is above? We are told, therefore, that the economy "has bottomed out," that we "will definitely see the economy turning up."

Perhaps this outlook really isn't a subjective interpretation made by men who must prove their policies are working. Maybe this is really the way things are. Could this really be the watershed?

A lot of consumers don't think so. Polls show them in a saving rather than a spending mood, pessimistic about the general outlook and concerned about their investments, their jobs, their ability to cope with inflation plus recession.

So? What does a psychological disposition on the part of ordinary Americans have to do with the economy's future? How is a mood related to the financial fortunes of business and government?

In this way: The expected upturn is to a great extent predicated on the assumption that consumer spending is due to increase sharply for a great range of products and services. But maybe the consumer isn't ready to spend.

Why not? His rate of savings has risen lately to more than 7 per cent; he's got the money — the elimination of the surtax has added a few more dollars to his paycheck. And some of those wage increases have been pretty hefty, too.

True. But studies of consumer behavior in recent years, mainly by Dr. George Katona of the University of Michigan, have demonstrated that the consumer may have the ability to buy but not the desire to buy.

In other words, depending upon many factors, he may stuff his mattress with dollars or he may spend them. He may even be willing, if he feels the future is bright, to buy when he doesn't have money, to borrow on his future.

What determines his willingness? So many factors that all cannot be listed. But among the major ones are his job security, his earnings outlook his confidence in economic policy, the state of the war.

Try and Stop Me

A BARBER whose mind was on the third race at Aqueduct nicked a customer five times while giving him a shave. Still hoping for a generous tip, he asked the bleeding victim, "May I wrap your head in a hot towel?" "Thank you, no," grunted the customer. "I'll carry it home under my arm."

The tragic death of Herb Shriner in a Florida automobile crash meant a loss to the American public of a friendly, homespun comedian who never once descended to obscenities or double entendres to win his full quota of laughs. Here are a few of his more memorable observations: "Back home in Indiana we had a fellow who called himself a doctor of law, and if anybody ever doctored the laws, he sure was the one." "The first big city I ever saw was Indianapolis. It wasn't for me. I'll still take the good old U.S.A." "Some doctors treat you for pneumonia and you die from measles. Not my doctor! When HE treats you for pneumonia, you die from pneumonia." "One of my neighbors has a watch that's lacked an hour hand now for two years. He's waiting for something else to bust on it so's he can have the whole thing fixed at once." "There's a lady in our town who's stopped having children because she's run out of names—to call her husband."

Miss Annabelle confides that she knew the very moment that the mail strike was over. She started receiving her copies of Collier's Magazine again.

Speaking Of Your Health

By Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

It is a never ending source of wonderment that hospitals function as magnificently as they do. As physicians and surgeons we grow to accept good and accurate medical care, and almost take it for granted because we see it so often. I scrub my hands and arms before an operation and then walk into the operating room and expect and do find hundreds of instruments in their proper place, completely sterilized and ready down to the finest details for safe surgery. Years of such encounters, I must confess, makes all of us take it for granted.

Yesterday, for the first time in many years I had occasion to go down to the basement and sub-basement of my hospital and actually was amazed by the activity going on. Electricians, plumbers, painters, air-condition specialists, firemen were all busy performing their individual duties to give safety to the hospital. In another area, office personnel and social service workers were occupied with Medicare and Medicaid programs and arranging for convalescent homes and handling the myriad non-medical aspects of hospital routine.

I was brought up sharply when I found a young dietitian crying because she had been screamed at by an impatient patient because the toast was soggy. Of course, seems too far to petty to write about, but often it represents an attitude of patients who really believe that a hospital is a hotel that specializes in gourmet food and non-medical pampering.

It is understandable that the emotional stress of being a patient makes them and their families somewhat irritable. But thoughtless, unreasonable demands of the hospital personnel makes everyone tense and reduces the efficiency of the institution.

A hospital is not the ideal place for a French cuisine. It is not an ideal place for a holiday. A hospital serves a single purpose — to combine all medical forces to again return the patient to good health.

Hospitals are remarkable institutions built with unselfish devotion. They function efficiently because of the dedication of the under-staffed and often under-paid members of the total health team.

Every physician and surgeon recognizes that the nursing staff plays one of the most vital roles in the recovery of the patient. Nurses, highly trained in the art of treatment are given added burdens that interfere with their proper functioning. I have noticed impatience, irrationality and annoyance directed at nurses because the flowers have not been properly arranged by them. Nurses are not a replacement for household servants who, too, are not the chattels of private possession.

Considerate patients and their families know that maximum kindness can be elicited from nurses and all attending personnel by appreciating the complexities and difficulties of running a hospital.

It is true that hospital costs have risen to astronomical heights, and will continue to rise as the complex needs of patients are being met. This adds considerably to the worry and emotional heights, and will continue to rise as the complex needs of patients are being met. This adds considerably to the worry and emotional stress of patients.

It is imperative that hospital patients and their families pause to think about the unbelievable number of people who play a medical and paramedical part in the recovery from illness. Only then can they contribute to the smoothness of the total hospital process.

Bleeding gums may be due to some general body condition. This deserves examination, not neglect.

Peace Protest Video Taped By Policemen

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP)—Toledo police video taped a peace demonstration last February as a precaution in the event violence erupted, the U.S. District Court here was told Wednesday.

John Burkhardt, the city's chief legal counsel, said in a defense brief the taping was "a reasonable exercise of police power" designed to protect government property, innocent bystanders and the protestors themselves.

The demonstration in front of the federal office building was sponsored by the Student-Faculty Peace Committee of the University of Toledo.

A suit filed a few days after the rally charged the police taping was designed to harass, demean and intimidate the protestors.

Why Are Probes Duds?

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

What is the matter with investigatory commissions? They bring witnesses to Washington to mouth clichés, to grab headlines for partisan advantage, and to reinforce stereotypes that have no more pure value in them than a Lyndon Johnson 25-cent piece. There was the National Advisory Commission on Civil Disorders which spawned the Kerner Report, a superficial document that blamed rioting on such things as substandard housing without ever tracing the conditions in our slums to the agricultural upheavals of the Thirties, when New Deal farm crop limitation policy forced thousands of Negroes to trek into the big cities where there was no room for them. Now there is the President's Commission on Campus Unrest, set up to dig into the psychological background of the Kent State University killings and other events of the recent spring. Judging from the statements made by the first witnesses, Chairman William Scranton is fated to preside over another dud. To steal a title from a Cole Porter song, it's just one of those things.

It could hardly be otherwise, for the commission is trying to come up with answers that have eluded philosophers ever since the western world became embroiled in its first great fratricidal war in 1914. Our society has been crumbling for a long time and the society includes its schools. There was campus unrest in the Twenties, when we mocked Woodrow Wilson for his quaint belief that he had led the U.S. into a war to end war. There was campus unrest in the Thirties, when the depression hit. Youth, ever since I have been around, has had an identity crisis and to blame the crisis only on the Vietnamese War or on Cambodia or on the rhetoric of Vice President Spiro Agnew is as shallow a performance as one could imagine.

"The truly guilty party," said J. Otis Cochran, chairman of the Black American Law Students Association, "is the Nixon-Agnew Administration... what hope is there for advocates of peaceful protest if each week brings another ill-conceived attack on Agnew's thesaurus of invectives?" The only trouble with this explanation is that no one had ever heard of Agnew when the Age of the Campus Rebellion dawned at Berkeley. I happen to have in my desk a Research Institute of America

Persons living on American farms total only 10,379,000 today against 15,635,000 10 years ago, it's estimated in a joint report just issued by the Agriculture Department and the Census Bureau. Now that's really food for thought?

Apparently we haven't found the answer to the question in that old song: "How Are You Gonna Keep 'Em Down on the Farm?"

Zadok Dumkopf says his inlaws must practice mental telepathy. As soon as he rents a summer cottage — boom! — they show up.

A truck carting a 66-foot refrigerated whale on a tour of England, advertising the World Wildlife Fund to save rare animals from extinction, broke down, blocking all traffic. That's just got to be the year's biggest fish story.

A West Virginia movie house manager, trying to prevent cut feet, bars all barefooted persons from his theater. That's good shoemanship!

study of campus dissatisfactions, dated September 25, 1967 (remember, it was "Lyndon Johnson's war" then). The RIA survey was made by Jeffrey St. John, a competent journalist who spent many weeks talking to college students about their "unrest." One of the big youthful gripes at the time was the "adults lacked conviction." The students wanted to admire people who "stand for something," and looking about them, they found such characters few and far between.

The campus crisis of 1967, so Mr. St. John concluded, was part of a bigger crisis of the spirit. What youth wanted "from the adult world — on the job or off — is direction, action, plausible and rational reasons for policies, honesty and clear-cut principles." It wasn't getting these things from permissive parents, or from economists who, believing that all things are relative, doubted the very existence of first principles, or from sociologists who had never tried to determine what human constants might underlie the diversity of tribal customs.

In brief, youth, in 1967, was lacking in the self-esteem that comes from knowing who you are, where you are, what you stand for, and what you are capable of doing. The colleges, in 1967, weren't noticeably geared to helping students get hold of themselves before taking on the bigger job of reforming society. The faculties weren't teaching history with reference to the balance of power, they had let economics degenerate from a study of principles into a business of manipulating statistics (it had become mathematical, not something that had, first of all, to reckon with the human values that dictate choice), they had dropped the idea that a western university should uphold western values, or that a Greco-Roman-Christian civilization should begin by studying its origins before trying to relate itself to other cultures.

Spiro Agnew had absolutely nothing to do with the 1967 scene, which is still the scene of 1970. The phenomenon that we know as "Kent State" was just a continuation of the Berkeley of Mario Savio or the Columbia of Mark Rudd, where it was a matter of pure luck that no innocent bystander happened to get in the way of a lethal missile of one kind or another.

It so happens that Spiro Agnew is one person who has "conviction," which is something that students have been searching for. As for President Nixon, he wants to end the war without surrendering to the Soviets (who would certainly kill the American university as we have known it). To blame our campus "unrest" on the Nixon-Agnew Administration is the rawest kind of cop-out. It our university presidents can't see that, they aren't capable of seeing anything, and we might as well close their institutions down.

A 27-year-old mother and her 14-month-old child died of burns caused by a kerosene explosion in the kitchen of their farm-house three miles south of New Holland. The kerosene exploded while the mother was attempting to light a fire in the stove. Twenty-three years earlier the same vicinity was the scene of a like occurrence when the mother of Harry Mitchell and three of her children were killed by an explosion of kerosene.

Mr. and Mrs. Pearl "Doc" Spindler, Toledo natives, were jailed following a chase through Circleville which aroused nearly the entire south end shortly after midnight. Deputies noticed the auto driven recklessly by Spindler and gave chase. In the minutes that followed, several attempts were made by Spindler to wreck the sheriff's car and two large jugs containing liquor were thrown out of the auto. After catching the couple, the deputy sped back up the street to try to obtain enough evidence to convict the pair. He found a jug, but all the contents had run from it so he used a cup to scoop part of it from the street.

The city was sweltering under the hottest sun in the state according to official reports. The temperature reached a high of 109 degrees July 20 and was expected to pass the 112 mark the next day.

The intense heat had citizens worrying about the city water supply but Harry B. Denman, manager of the local water service, reported the water supply was good. Although the Darby Creek was at a lower level than it had been in anyone's memory, the waterworks received an adequate supply.

Miss Martha Bartley, judged the winner in Circleville's beauty pageant travelled to Russell's Point, Ohio, to take part in the contest for the title "Miss Ohio." She was among the top 18 in the state competition.

Bus tours following "Ohio's

Most Scenic Route" were scheduled by Ohio Scenic Stages Inc. Leaving Circleville from the American Hotel, a person could travel to Athens by way of Laurelville, South Bloomingville, Ash Cave, Carbondale and Marshfield for only $2.70 round trip.

A diary was found belonging to Rev. Joseph A. Roof, pastor of the St. Paul Lutheran Church for 20 years. In it was a record of the long drought experienced by Roundtown and Pickaway County from June, 1838 to May, 1839. During that time "not enough rain fell to moisten the earth two inches." This discovery was made at a time when a bad dry spell was being experienced by Pickaway Countians almost 100 years later.

Four reports of fires, three of them great ones, were reported all during one afternoon and evening. The homestead of Mrs. Flora Bryant, located one mile east of New Holland suffered almost half of the total estimate of $25,000 damages set. Destroyed in that blaze were a large barn, double corn crib, garage, tool and feed shed and many tools and farm implements. Other fires occurred in a barn at the Joe Hedges Farm at Cedar Hill Pike, the barn of Mrs. Adam Rhl, near Meade and a straw stack at the residence of C. E. Brown near Atlanta. Rainfall was practically extinct that summer making the fire hazard extremely great.

A pair of hummingbirds constructed a nest in the frieze at the front of the courthouse and were often seen flying in and out of the rooms of the building.

Circleville Kiwanis Club and Rotary sponsored a special air program featuring the Goodyear blimp, "The Vigilant," the Soho II, a Standard Oil Co. plane and the Curtis-Robin plane. The Air Day was held near the landing field on the Darbyville Pike. One reason for the show was to encourage the city to build an airstrip for commercial and military use.

NEW YORK (AP) — It isn't much fun being popular.

The trouble with being popular is that the more popular you become the less you trust your self—and the less people really think of you.

At one time the desire to be popular was part of the American dream. Everyone not only wanted to be rich — he also wanted to be well-liked.

It turned out, however, that this mass attempt at popularity was self-defeating.

For one thing, it was too easy. To be popular with another person all you have to do is smile at the right time when he tells a joke, always give him good news, have a lower income, a smaller car, and a homelier wife than he has, reach in your pocket when he wants to borrow money, and never interrupt him with laughter while he is giving his opinion about anything.

While everybody knows what to do to become popular, few know anymore what to do to become unpopular. You have to learn how to say or do the wrong thing at the right time.

For example, here are a few remarks guaranteed to make you memorably disliked and therefore interestingly unpopular:

"No, it's not your turn. I was here first."

"These are nice snapshots of your children. Have any of them graduated from reform school yet?"

"Well, it's nice that you took off the 30 pounds, but personally

I thought you looked healthier when you didn't have that gaunt look."

"You can see my hole card anytime you're ready—but it'll cost you another twenty bucks."

"Let's have lunch together sometime when you're back on an expense account."

"For you to get a merit raise, two things will have to happen that haven't happened yet—this firm will have to start making some money, and you'll have to start showing some merit."

"It's not a bad painting for a beginner. Did you do it with your left or your right hand?"

"Here, let me pour in another double dollop of vermouth. It's only gin we're short of."

"Of course, if you feel better that's the main thing, but frankly I don't know anyone who's going to that psychiatrist this year."

"We thought we could stay with you only a couple of days, but we're having so much fun I guess you'll get to put up with us for the rest of the week."

Today In History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Today is Friday, July 24, the 205th day of 1970. There are 160 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1946, the first underwater test of an atomic bomb was made by the United States off Bikini Atoll in the Pacific.

On this date: In 1704, the British captured Gibraltar during the War of the Spanish Succession.

In 1783, Simon Bolivar, the Venezuelan patriot known as the liberator of South America was born in Caracas.

In 1847, the Mormon leader, Brigham Young, arrived at Great Salt Lake Valley in Utah. The event is celebrated in Utah as Pioneer Day.

In 1929, President Herbert Hoover proclaimed the Kellogg-Briand Pact renouncing war as an instrument of national policy.

In 1959, U.S. Vice President Richard M. Nixon and Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev held their famous "kitchen debate" at an American exposition in Moscow.

In 1967, Pope Paul VI flew to Turkey for the first papal visit to that country in more than 12 centuries.

Ten years ago: Republican leaders were hammering out a party platform prior to a national convention in Chicago.

Five years ago: Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. was leading rallies and church services in a civil rights campaign in Chicago.

One year ago: The Apollo 11 astronauts returned from man's first flight to the moon, making a safe splash-down in the Pacific.

Say Hamilton Count Wrong

HAMILTON, Ohio (AP) — The City Planning Department thinks that Hamilton's population is larger than a preliminary census indicates and has launched a drive to have all uncounted persons counted.

"We feel that at an absolute minimum, the city population is at least 78,000," planning director Walter Blair said Wednesday.

The census shows Hamilton's population at 64,058.

Through the news media, Blair urged residents who did not receive census forms to notify the department. He also asked ones who have received forms but not sent them in, to do so.

"As our citizens are paying federal taxes, we want to make sure they are getting their fair share of return of these taxes," Blair said, pointing out that some federal funds are allocated to metropolitan areas on a population basis.

Sohio Earnings Show Increase

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Increased sales volume, higher gas prices and higher income tax benefits resulted in sharply increased earnings for the Standard Oil Co. (Ohio) in the second quarter.

Sohio Chairman Charles E. Spahr said Wednesday the second quarter net income totaled $14.1 million, up 21 per cent from the $11.7 million reported for the corresponding period of 1969.

Sohio reported higher sales volume in petroleum products, chemicals and coal. Based on 13.4 million shares of dividend-bearing common stock outstanding, the per share earnings were $1.05 compared to 87 cents a share for the corresponding 1969 period.

This development is significant, in the view of U.S. intelligence analysts, because it indicates the Libyans may have decided to turn to the Russians for their army equipment.

Although the Tripoli regime is considered in the leftist Arab camp, U.S. authorities have been hopeful the new Libyan leaders would not tie their country to the Soviets.

At least six other Arab countries are receiving military equipment and are considered generally to side with the Soviets against the United States on most issues: Egypt, Syria, Algeria, the Sudan, Iraq and Yemen.

The United States has supplied Libya with some F5 Freedom Fighter jets. In addition, the Libyans have been discussing with the French the possibility of acquiring some Mirage jet fighters.

The new Libyan leaders have tended toward strong ties with the neighboring Egyptians and some analysts have forecast the former Western airbases in Libya would be used by the Egyptian air force for training.

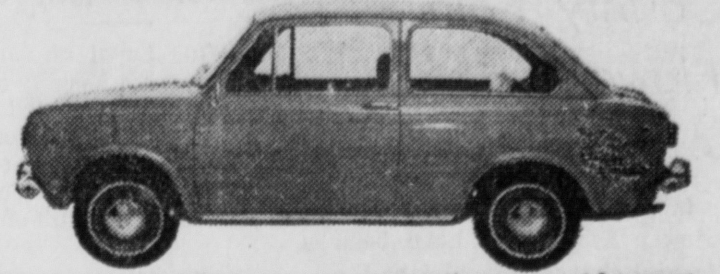

Some recent intelligence reports suggests that Egyptian warplanes have operated already out of the former British air base of El Adem in eastern Libya.

Miss America Gets Freer Talk Topics

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — Miss America 1971, unlike her predecessors, will be allowed to give her opinions on marijuana smoking, the Vietnam war and other controversial issues. But sex remains taboo.

In revealing a major departure from pageant tradition, Miss America officials emphasized Wednesday that questions of a "distasteful personal nature" such as, "Do you use the pill?" would remain on the taboo list during the contest here in September.

Albert Marks, chairman of the pageant executive committee, said he had lifted the prohibition against controversial topics because "I took a good look at the whole picture."

"We were always afraid youngsters with no prior background would put a foot in their mouth, but today's youthful society doesn't need over-protection," Marks said, however, that contestants would not be required to give their opinion.

Recently, Katherine Huppe of Helena, Mont., resigned as Miss Montana, citing restrictions on what she could say and do about politics and other current events.

Miss Huppe, 18, said that after she won the title she had to sign a contract forbidding her to write anything not approved by the sponsoring Billings Jaycees and to campaign for any political candidate or cause.

Soviets Expand Help To Arabs

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Soviet Union has expanded its military aid to another Arab state with a shipment of equipment, including tanks, to Libya, U.S. sources say.

They report a Russian vessel recently landed a cargo of T54 and T55 medium tanks, trucks and other vehicles at Tripoli, apparently the first ship load of Russian-supplied military gear to reach Libya.

This development is significant, in the view of U.S. intelligence analysts, because it indicates the Libyans may have decided to turn to the Russians for their army equipment.

Although the Tripoli regime is considered in the leftist Arab camp, U.S. authorities have been hopeful the new Libyan leaders would not tie their country to the Soviets.

At least six other Arab countries are receiving military equipment and are considered generally to side with the Soviets against the United States on most issues: Egypt, Syria, Algeria, the Sudan, Iraq and Yemen.

The struggle for the strategically located North African nation has been under way since last September when young Libyan army officers overthrew the generally pro-American King Idris.

The British and the Americans evacuated military bases at the request of the revolutionary government; the United States turning over its big Wheelus Air Base near Tripoli early last month.

The United States has supplied Libya with some F5 Freedom Fighter jets. In addition, the Libyans have been discussing with the French the possibility of acquiring some Mirage jet fighters.

The new Libyan leaders have tended toward strong ties with the neighboring Egyptians and some analysts have forecast the former Western airbases in Libya would be used by the Egyptian air force for training.

Some recent intelligence reports suggest that Egyptian warplanes have operated already out of the former British air base of El Adem in eastern Libya.

Topiary is the art of training cutting and trimming trees and shrubs into odd and ornamental patterns. Topiary decoration reached its peak in England and the rest of Europe in the 17th and 18th centuries, when royalty and the landed gentry delighted in large formal gardens, and commanded the manpower to keep them up.

Sohio Earnings Show Increase

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Increased sales volume, higher gas prices and higher income tax benefits resulted in sharply increased earnings for the Standard Oil Co. (Ohio) in the second quarter.

Sohio Chairman Charles E. Spahr said Wednesday the second quarter net income totaled $14.1 million, up 21 per cent from the $11.7 million reported for the corresponding period of 1969.

Sohio reported higher sales volume in petroleum products, chemicals and coal. Based on 13.4 million shares of dividend-bearing common stock outstanding, the per share earnings were $1.05 compared to 87 cents a share for the corresponding 1969 period.

Addonizio Faces Term In Prison

TRENTON, N.J. (AP) — Former Newark Mayor Hugh J. Addonizio and four codefendants face up to 20 years in prison on each of 64 counts of conspiracy and extortion.

All five were convicted by a jury Wednesday night in what the federal government described as a Mafia-backed scheme to squeeze payoffs from contractors doing business with the state's largest city, which has a population of more than 400,000.

No date was set for sentencing by U.S. Dist. Court Judge George H. Barlow.

Miss America Gets Freer Talk Topics

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — Miss America 1971, unlike her predecessors, will be allowed to give her opinions on marijuana smoking, the Vietnam war and other controversial issues. But sex remains taboo.

In revealing a major departure from pageant tradition, Miss America officials emphasized Wednesday that questions of a "distasteful personal nature" such as, "Do you use the pill?" would remain on the taboo list during the contest here in September.

Albert Marks, chairman of the pageant executive committee, said he had lifted the prohibition against controversial topics because "I took a good look at the whole picture."

"We were always afraid youngsters with no prior background would put a foot in their mouth, but today's youthful society doesn't need over-protection," Marks said, however, that contestants would not be required to give their opinion.

Recently, Katherine Huppe of Helena, Mont., resigned as Miss Montana, citing restrictions on what she could say and do about politics and other current events.

Miss Huppe, 18, said that after she won the title she had to sign a contract forbidding her to write anything not approved by the sponsoring Billings Jaycees and to campaign for any political candidate or cause.

Learning To Lead The Way By Becoming Good Citizens

By JOAN O'SULLIVAN

A summer camp is fun and games. A summer school is study and more study.

A summer Encampment is something else again — a unique educational experience, a living workshop, designed to prepare promising young men and women for leadership in efforts to help solve urgent racial, poverty, environmental and international problems.

You may never have heard of Encampments for Citizenship, now in its 25th year, in its headquarters at 2 West 64th Street, New York, N. Y., but you have heard of some of the campers. Over 90 per cent of them have gone on as leaders including Congressman Allard K. Lowenstein, Dr. Edgar S. Cahn, attorney and recent editor of "Our Brother's Keeper: The Indian in White America"; William Haddad, and Charles Patterson, both former associate directors of the Peace Corps.

Distinguished Alumni These are just four of the many alumni who are serving their nation in political and educational posts or who are working with programs such as Head Start.

What will this year's 240 campers, ranging from 15 to 18, recruited from every part of the country and from every economic, racial and religious background, accomplish? For starters, they have their work cut out for them.

One group in White Plains, N. Y., will visit drug addiction treatment centers, government institutions, business and labor-sponsored inner city projects. A second group in Great Falls, Montana, will delve into Indian affairs, conservation and community development programs and will participate as volunteers in local service projects.

Helping The Indians The third group in Arizona (they are second-year campers) will, among other things, help the Paphe Indians build a sorely needed youth recreation center.

By the time the Encampments close in mid-August, each camper will have had a taste of democracy in action, will have made a real contribution, will perhaps be on his or her way to a career of public service.

The guiding spirit behind

SERVICE PROJECTS — Two encampment days a week are devoted to such projects. Last year, these campers from Montana helped low-income Puerto Rican villagers to build self-help housing.

Encampment is an amazing woman, Mrs. Alice K. Pollitzer, a co-founder of the movement with Algernon D. Black, Now, 25 years later, "Nanny" who recently celebrated her 100th birthday, is as active as ever. She has yet to miss the monthly Encampment board meeting and regularly attends meetings of two special committees each month.

Faith Renewed Of the success of the Encampments, which can be counted off in the service careers of alumni, Mrs. Pollitzer says: "I guess I just like young people, and my faith is renewed over and over again."

County Fair Adds New Class To Homemaking

Class 16 of Department 10 in the Homemaking Division of the Pickaway County Fair catalogue was omitted.

It is Baking With Lard and sponsored by the Pickaway County Porkettes. Mrs. Walter Herron is president and Mrs. Clyde Herron is chairman.

All entries must be made with lard and will be accepted from 9 a.m. until 12 noon Aug. 5. None will be accepted after the deadline.

The Grand Champion prize donated by the South Central Power Company will be $25.

1. Cakes; 2. Cookies; 3. Yeast bread and rolls; 4. Quick breads (Cornbread, gingerbread, nutbread, biscuits, etc.); 5. Pies (must be left in original pans).

Prizes other than the Grand Champion will be first, $2; second, $1.50; third, $1 and fourth, ribbon.

And from campers viewpoints the program pays off, too, as witness these quotes:

"I learned that to get anything done, one has to get out and work for it and not just talk about it." — A 16-year-old Ohioan.

"I learned the importance of trying to change things that need changing. — A 17-year-old from Massachusetts.

"I've gained a sense of responsibility to help my people. I have learned respect for other peoples different ideals. — A 16-year-old from Kentucky mountain country.

"Now I'm on the steering committee of the anti-poverty coordinating group in my neighborhood, trying to put into practice some of what I learned at the Encampment. — A 16-year-old Puerto Rican New Yorker.

Federal Aides May Join In Scandal Probe

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Officials of the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development are expected to testify here next month before a grand jury investigating the scandal-cloaked investment practices of the Ohio School Employees Retirement System.

Assistant Prosecutor John Peck said subpoenas would be sent by presiding Judge Myron B. Gessaman to at least three officials of the agency.

Peck said one who may be called is Sherman Unger, general counsel for the department and a prominent Ohio Republican from Cincinnati.

Five employees of the SERS appeared before the grand jury Thursday for questioning.

Of major interest to the jury is the handling of $28 million in construction loans by former SERS Investment Officer James B. Loe, and the firm of Crofters, Inc., which helped arrange the transactions for fees.

State Auditor Roger Cloud called for the grand jury investigation.

Draft Reform Legislation Seen Unlikely This Year

WASHINGTON (AP) — Without closing the door on President Nixon's plan to abolish student draft deferments, House Armed Services Chairman L. Mendel Rivers says Congress is unlikely to act on draft reform this year.

Rivers made the statements Thursday at the same time Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird announced draft calls will average below 10,000 a month for the remainder of the year.

The reduction to pre-Vietnam levels was coupled with a statement by Laird that "we are doing all we can to plan and implement a program that will reduce draft calls to zero and enable us to establish an all-volunteer force."

Laird made no prediction when this might happen.

Rivers said a subcommittee review of the entire draft law is already under way, but added he plans no wholesale reform bills this year.

"It depends what the pressures on the President are and whether he needs it," the South Carolina Democrat said of Nixon's deferment plan. "We'll have to find out."

"I don't think we can do much this late in the session," he said. "I plan no bills this year—but I don't know what the subcommittee will recommend."

In the Senate, Armed Services Chairman John C. Stennis, D-Miss., promised hearings shortly after Nixon asked Congress April 23 for authority to abolish student deferments. But no Senate hearings have been scheduled.

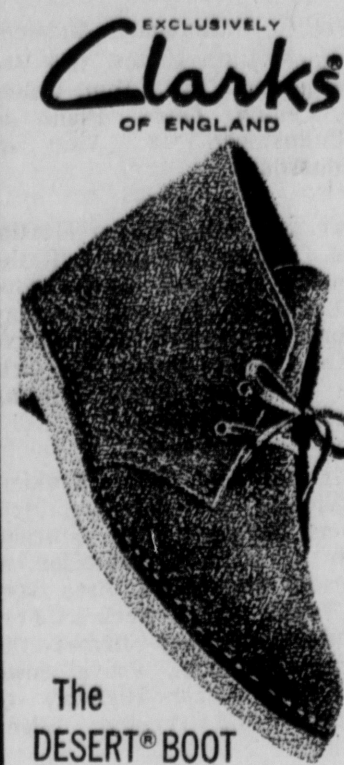

Nixon called the student deferments unfair and said he would abolish them for all young men not already in college that day if Congress would give him the authority.

At the same time, the President urged Congress to begin the transition to a volunteer army when the draft law expires July 1, 1971.

Rivers announced to the House Thursday the draft law review to produce recommendations "for possible future action" was already under way in the draft subcommittee headed by Rep. F. Edward Hebert, D-La.

But Hebert indicated he is in no hurry to make a recommendation on Nixon's deferment request or any other draft reform.

Mrs. Carl Martin, chairman, conducted the recent meeting of the Women's Committee of Pickaway County Farm Bureau at the local YMCA.

Tom Ellifritz, organizational director, told of the District Rally to be held Monday, Sept. 14 at the Lind Arena, Zanesville, from 10 a.m. until 3 p.m. A charcoal grilled rib-eye steak luncheon will be served. Tickets may be purchased from Women's Committee members or the county office. John Tassan, interior designer for Glick's Furniture Store, will speak on "A New Look For Your Home." The program will also feature a County Beef Princess parade.

The annual Rabies Clinic to be held in November was discussed. Final plans will be made at the next two meetings. Mrs. Martin asked members to bring pros and cons they had heard about the clinic last year to the next meeting to be held Aug. 17 at the County Office.

Faith Renewed
Of the success of the Encampments, which can be counted off in the service careers of alumni, Mrs. Pollitzer says: "I guess I just like young people, and my faith is renewed over and over again."

County Fair Adds New Class To Homemaking

Class 16 of Department 10 in the Homemaking Division of the Pickaway County Fair catalogue was omitted.

It is Baking With Lard and sponsored by the Pickaway County Porkettes. Mrs. Walter Herron is president and Mrs. Clyde Herron is chairman.

All entries must be made with lard and will be accepted from 9 a.m. until 12 noon Aug. 5. None will be accepted after the deadline.

The Grand Champion prize donated by the South Central Power Company will be $25. 1. Cakes; 2. Cookies; 3. Yeast bread and rolls; 4. Quick breads (Corn bread, gingerbread, nutbread, biscuits, etc.); 5. Pies (must be left in original pans).

Prizes other than the Grand Champion will be first, $2; second, $1.50; third, $1 and fourth, ribbon.

And from campers viewpoints the program pays off, too, as witness these quotes:
"I learned that to get anything done, one has to get out and work for it and not just talk about it." — A 16-year-old Ohioan.

"I learned the importance of trying to change things that need changing. — A 17-year-old from Massachusetts.

"I've gained a sense of responsibility to help my people. I have learned respect for other peoples different ideals. — A 16-year-old from Kentucky mountain country.

"Now I'm on the steering committee of the anti-poverty coordinating group in my neighborhood, trying to put into practice some of what I learned at the Encampment. — A 16-year-old Puerto Rican New Yorker.

Federal Aides May Join In Scandal Probe

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Officials of the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development are expected to testify here next month before a grand jury investigating the scandal-cloaked investment practices of the Ohio School Employees Retirement System.

Assistant Prosecutor John Peck said subpoenas would be sent by presiding Judge Myron B. Gessaman to at least three officials of the agency.

Peck said one who may be called is Sherman Unger, general counsel for the department and a prominent Ohio Republican from Cincinnati.

Five employees of the SERS appeared before the grand jury Thursday for questioning.

Of major interest to the jury is the handling of $28 million in construction loans by former SERS Investment Officer James B. Loe, and the firm of Crofters, Inc., which helped arrange the transactions for fees.

State Auditor Roger Cloud called for the grand jury investigation.

New Plant Endangers Lake Erie-Gilligan

PORT CLINTON, Ohio (AP)—Democratic gubernatorial candidate John J. Gilligan said Thursday the state has ignored "the honest concerns of thousands of Ohioans" by approving construction of a $256 million nuclear-powered electric plant here which endangers the survival of Lake Erie.

Gilligan, speaking to community leaders, said the Ohio Water Pollution Control Board ignored pleas not to build the plant. "The state's own director of natural resources has expressed great fear," he said, "that thermal pollution caused by discharge of heated water in (Lake Erie) will pose a serious problem."

All voting members of Girl Scout councils, boards of directors, and area associations are volunteers who serve without pay. All council officers serve without pay.

Draft Reform Legislation Seen Unlikely This Year

WASHINGTON (AP) — Without closing the door on President Nixon's plan to abolish student draft deferments, House Armed Services Chairman L. Mendel Rivers says Congress is unlikely to act on draft reform this year.

Rivers made the statements Thursday at the same time Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird announced draft calls will average below 10,000 a month for the remainder of the year.

The reduction to pre-Vietnam levels was coupled with a statement by Laird that "we are doing all we can to plan and implement a program that will reduce draft calls to zero and enable us to establish an all-volunteer force."

Laird made no prediction when this might happen.

Rivers said a subcommittee review of the entire draft law is already under way, but added he plans no wholesale reform bills this year.

"It depends what the pressures on the President are and whether he needs it," the South Carolina Democrat said of Nixon's deferment plan. "We'll have to find out."

"I don't think we can do much this late in the session," he said. "I plan no bills this year—but I don't know what the subcommittee will recommend."

In the Senate, Armed Services Chairman John C. Stennis, D-Miss., promised hearings shortly after Nixon asked Congress April 23 for authority to abolish student deferments. But no Senate hearings have been scheduled.

Nixon called the student deferments unfair and said he would abolish them for all young men not already in college that day if Congress would give him the authority.

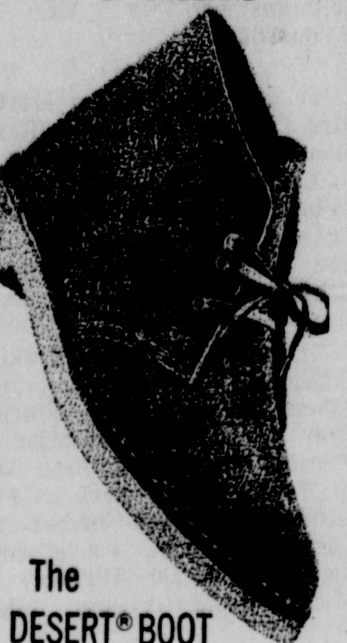

At the same time, the President urged Congress to begin the transition to a volunteer army when the draft law expires July 1, 1971.

Rivers announced to the House Thursday the draft law review to produce recommendations "for possible future action" was already under way in the draft subcommittee headed by Rep. F. Edward Hebert, D-La.

But Hebert indicated he is in no hurry to make a recommendation on Nixon's deferment request or any other draft reform.

Ground Broken For New Lodge

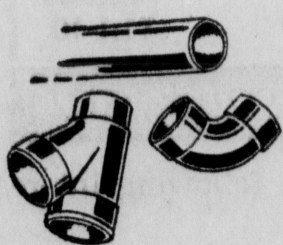

LOGAN, Ohio (AP)—Ground was broken Wednesday for the state's new lodge on a high ridge deep in the Hocking Hills State Park.

Mel Rebholz, assistant director of the Ohio Department of Natural Resources, headed department officials at the ceremony marking the start on $4.5 million in improvements near Old Man's Cave.

The lodge and 40 vacation cabins will make up the latest addition to the state's park system. Rebholz said the lodge and cabins will be built to retain as much as possible of the wooded scenery, including tall pine trees planted in the late 1920s. A 33-acre lake is already under construction.

Warning By Fed Killed Plan For Loan To Penn Central

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two days before the Nixon administration killed its proposed $200 million loan guarantee for the Penn Central Railroad, the Federal Reserve warned that such a loan probably would merely postpone bankruptcy proceedings.

In a confidential credit report, the Federal Reserve Bank of New York also said it could not certify the financially troubled railroad's ability to repay such a loan.

The report was dated June 17. Under normal procedures it should have been delivered immediately to the federal agency guaranteeing the loan, in this case the Defense Department. Two days after the report was dated, the Defense Department was still pushing the planned loan.

The fact prompted Rep. Wright Patman, D-Texas, chairman of the House Banking Committee, to charge Wednesday as he released the report that the administration sought to proceed with the loan guarantee despite the Fed's warning.

Patman said the report was flown to Washington on the 17th and delivered by courier to the Federal Reserve System's board of governors for forwarding to the Defense Department. It could not be determined immediately when the Defense Department received the report.

As late as 8 a.m. June 19, Deputy Secretary of Defense David M. Packard told Patman his department intended to proceed with the guarantee. Late that afternoon after a round of private meetings, the administration announced it had killed the plan. It was not known how much influence, if any, the Fed's report had on the final decision.

Two days later, Penn Central filed for reorganization under the bankruptcy act.

Under the administration proposal, known as a V-loan guarantee agreement, several New York City banks would have issued the loan to the Penn Central. The loan would have been guaranteed by the Defense Department under the 1950 Defense Production Act.

"The cash needs of the company through the year 1971, could, in our estimation, reach or exceed one-half billion dollars," the Fed's report said. "The proposed V-loan financing maturing on Oct. 31, 1970, of itself, would provide inadequate assistance to the company and, in all likelihood, merely postpone the institution of proceedings under the Bankruptcy Act."

The only apparent way to help the railroad, the report said, would be passage of legislation establishing a government loan guarantee program and providing the Penn Central with $500 million for extended periods under the program. Such legislation had been proposed.

Draft Calls Nosedive

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird said today draft calls for the rest of 1970 will average below 10,000 a month, a return to pre-Vietnam levels.

Laird made this forecast in a speech for about 550 students working as summer interns with the government.

"In the remaining months of this year," Laird said, "I anticipate that draft calls will average below 10,000 per month."

In the past, he has predicted that total draft calls this year will fall between 150,000 and 170,000 young men compared with the 290,000 drafted in 1969.

Aides said Laird still sticks to that forecast. Through August, draft calls this year have totaled 124,500.

Happy day!

Money in the mailbox!

But does it have to be money? How about a letter from someone who loves you? Or four tickets to the next World Series? Or an invitation from good friends to dinner?

And surely, good things don't have to come by mail. They could come in kind words from a friend. Or in your boss saying, "I'm giving you a raise." Or as an "A" grade on a carefully-researched term paper.

But what is the "best" happiness? Where can we find it?

The best happiness is a letter from God, saying that His Son is your invitation to His Kingdom.

Where can you find this letter? In the Bible and in church this Sunday and every Sunday.

Happy day!

Money in the mailbox!

But does it have to be money? How about a letter from someone who loves you? Or four tickets to the next World Series? Or an invitation from good friends to dinner?

And surely, good things don't have to come by mail. They could come in kind words from a friend. Or in your boss saying, "I'm giving you a raise." Or as an "A" grade on a carefully-researched term paper.

But what is the "best" happiness? Where can we find it?

The best happiness is a letter from God, saying that His Son is your invitation to His Kingdom.

Where can you find this letter? In the Bible and in church this Sunday and every Sunday.

The Adult Reading World

By MRS. RAY DAVIS

Back in the Thirties, I think, a team of sociologists studied Muncie, Ind., and produced an excellent survey of that city in a book called "Middletown U.S.A."

My memory of it is a trifle hazy, but as I recall, the impact of the book was largely due to the statistics involved in proving certain sociological theses. Reading "Middletown U.S.A." gave one an insight into the mechanics of living in a small American city in the Depression years, but it provided nothing much of a picture of the individual persons living out their lives within that particular framework of sociology and economics.

In great contrast to "Middletown U.S.A." is a new book at the Public Library called "Akenfield — Portrait of an English Village" by Ronald Blythe, a writer who was born in a Suffolk village and has lived in East Anglia since 1955. There were only 298 men and women living in the village in 1961 and the writer knows each one intimately.

Following a general description of the character, Blythe's method has been to permit each to tell his story and assert his opinions in his own words. This results in a picture of the villagers as they represent the qualities and attitudes shared by everyone, while permitting the individual's characteristics — his opinions, his attitudes and his essential quality to shine through.

Some chapters are devoted to a single occupation or avocation, such as the chapters entitled "The Forge," "The Wheelwright" or "The Bell-Ringers." Other chapters, "God," "The School," "The Law" set forth the opinions and attitudes of various individuals towards the village institutions. This adds up to the fact that Ronald Blythe "has captured the essence of life in a village, its vigor, its diversity, its contradictions." This is a very good book indeed.

By coincidence another new book in the Library is concerned with life in an American village written by an American writer who has lived his life for the most part in just such a scene. "This Happy Place" by Bentz Plageman is an entertaining and readable, but suffers in comparison with the English book, partly because we are familiar with the scene so that the surprises and strangeness of life in "Akenfield" are lacking here. Another reason is probably that while Bentz Plageman reveals a great deal of his own individuality, he gives us no clear picture of the rest of the village except for some delightful glimpses of uninhibited American children.

Admirers of John Updike will be pleased to know that the Library has a copy of his latest portrait of an "UnHero." Called simply "Beck — A Book" it is the story of an aging writer (it may be partly autobiographical) and it is "Waspish, theological, scared and insidiously ironic." John Updike is a master of vivid writing and swift pace. The book will do nothing to uplift your spirits or cheer your day, yet it is a hard book to put aside before the end.

Lawyers Back Crackdown On Antics In Courtroom

WASHINGTON (AP) — Prominent trial lawyers recommended Thursday that judges combat courtroom disturbances by knocking unruly lawyers out of the case or suspending their right to appear in the court for six months.

In a report, the American College of Trial Lawyers also encouraged contempt action and disbarment proceedings against lawyers who engage in disruptive trial tactics.

The report said such tactics post a "new, direct, jocular threat to the judicial process."

To arm judges with suspension powers, the 2,000-member group's committee on disruption of the judicial process recommended passage of new authorization laws where they don't already exist.

"Disbarment would continue to be the function of traditional disciplinary proceedings in appropriate situations," the report said. "While they were getting under way, however, suspension of the right to appear in court would prevent an evil from continuing or spreading."

The committee, headed by a New York City lawyer Whitney North Seymour, said disruptive tactics—by defendants, their attorneys and sometimes by prosecutors—"threaten to become systematized and popularized among small but militant segments of the profession and the general public."

The report added: "Recently lawyers responsible for courtroom disturbances have been warmly welcomed by university students—even law students—as if, somehow, their conduct was responsible and heroic."

"Little thought seems to have been given to the fact that aside from the violation of traditional standards of professional duty, such conduct prejudices the interests of the clients, however much they may encourage and participate in it."

"Furthermore, it prejudices others who may be tried in the future, because members of the public are revolted by this degradation of the courts and the precious right of fair trial."

Seymour is a former president of the American Bar Association.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Three things might halt plans for underground nuclear weapons tests on the remote Aleutian island of Amchitka: diplomacy, law suit or gigantic earthquake.

Earthquakes are common on Amchitka. A shake just before the test scheduled for autumn 1971 could delay it. But far more damaging to Atomic Energy Commission plans for continued use of the island as a test site would be a big quake right after the 1971 blast.

Testing could be curtailed if agreement is reached at the Strategic Arms Limitation Talks between the United States and the Soviet Union, or if a group of Alaskans who feel they are personally endangered by the tests won their contemplated law suit.

But the earthquake issue is the big one in scientific circles. It was raised by a blue ribbon panel of scientists formed to report to the President's science adviser on the potential hazards of underground nuclear tests.

The panel, headed by Dr. Kenneth S. Pitzer, president of Stanford University, studied AEC from previous tests, talked to AEC scientists, then utilizing the expertise of its own members wrote:

"The panel is seriously concerned with the problem of earthquakes resulting from large-yield nuclear tests... new and significant evidence demonstrates that small earthquakes do actually occur both immediately after a large-yield test explosion and in the following weeks."

"The largest of the observed associated aftershocks have been between one and two magnitudes less than the explosion itself. However, there does not now appear to be a basis for eliminating the possibility that a large test explosion might induce either immediately or after a period of time, a severe earthquake of sufficiently large magnitude to cause serious damage well beyond the limits of the test site."

The report went to the White House Nov. 27, 1968, about 11 months before the first of a series of large-yield nuclear tests was to go off on Amchitka.

The panel also gave its opinion of the earthquake potential at the three existing test sites:

"The proposed tests at the central Nevada site involve a greater risk of earthquake than those at the regular Nevada test site since the more northerly portions of Nevada are more active seismically. Since the Amchitka area in Alaska is still more active seismically, the hazard of inducing an earthquake must be considered to be greater at that location than at either Nevada site."

The report disappeared into the White House. Preparations continued on Amchitka.

Finally on Sept. 29, three days before an underground blast in the range of about one million tons of high explosive was to be set off on Amchitka, the Pitzer report was released.

It was included, beginning on page 49, in a 59-page pamphlet that discussed Amchitka test preparations, safety, site selection, the environment and even a sea otter relocation program.

Despite congressional apprehension, the test went off on schedule. No earthquake followed. No radioactivity escaped. Things went better, than the AEC had anticipated.

But Dr. Frank Press, head of the department of earth sciences at Massachusetts Institute of Technology and a world renowned seismologist who was a member of the Pitzer panel, said: "We all would have bet that nothing would happen. The probability of something happening is small. The risk is very great."

Emmett Chapel Sets 'Crusade For Christ'

REV. BOB RUDD

Emmett Chapel United Methodist church will conduct a "Crusade For Christ," beginning on Sunday and continuing through August 2.

Evangelist will be the Rev. Bob Rudd, Henderson, North Carolina. Rev. Rudd is an approved evangelist of the United Methodist church and has held over 325 Crusades in the United States. He was a pastor for 15 years which gives him the experience needed by an evangelist to acquaint him with the needs of the pastorate.

This will be the first time that Rev. Rudd has appeared in this area and the pastor, Rev. Foster Jenne, invites the public to attend these services, which will be held each evening at 7:30.

Special emphasis is being given to the youth of Pickaway County to attend these meetings. Special music each evening will be presented.

Rev. Rudd uses magical tricks to illustrate spiritual truths, puppets and flannel graphs for the presentation of the Gospel to young people. He has had years of experience in song evangelism and special solo work.

Press pointed out that the AEC has said it plans to set off nuclear explosives of progressively larger yields. He said scientists don't know enough about earthquakes to know whether there might be a certain size shock from a nuclear blast which would trigger a major quake.

The greatest danger from an earthquake at Amchitka would come from the tidal wave it could generate. Press estimated it would take a quake with a Richter scale reading of 7.5 or 8 to generate a tidal wave large enough to cause damage in populated areas. The 1964 Alaska earthquake, one of the largest on record, had a Richter reading of 8.5.

An earthquake that large at Amchitka could send a tidal wave across the Pacific that would devastate coastal areas as far away as Japan.

The AEC answers that there are frequent large earthquakes in the Amchitka area and none has ever triggered a large tidal wave.

Two government seismologists for the U.S. Geological Survey said this month they found in a seven-year study that just as many earthquakes occurred before underground atomic explosions as afterwards.

Their report in a scientific journal had been preceded last year by another report of three different scientists who concluded that underground explosions triggered significant earthquake activity.

Robert D. Jones Jr., manager of the Aleutian Islands National Wildlife Refuge which includes Amchitka, watches with growing frustration the coming of what he calls "the bomb people."

For years Jones has worked to make Amchitka and other islands in the chain more hospitable to the rare Aleutian Canada Goose, as well as to Bald Eagles, and other wildlife.

But the preparations for Can-Nikin, the 1971 test, are eliminating the ground cover and driving off the birds, says Jones. Another factor is the noise and activity.

With its wildlife and susceptibility to earthquakes, why did the AEC settle on Amchitka for its test site?

AEC officials say the choice was narrowed to Amchitka and the North Slope in northern Alaska. According to Dr. Harry Reynolds of the Weapons section of Lawrence Radiation Laboratory in Livermore, Calif., the North Slope was eliminated because of the inhospitable climate although it is seismically stable.

Maj. Gen. E. B. Giller, director of the AEC's weapons division, says another factor was ecological, particularly the presence nearby of caribou calving grounds.

But doesn't the AEC know enough already about detonating nuclear bombs—or devices, as it prefers to call them? Is there any real need for more tests?

"You don't design a weapon and wonder if it will go bang," says Reynolds. The tests are "experiments, a series of experiments."

Not all the devices that the AEC makes go bang deep underground are weapons. Some are handled by the Plowshare program, the U.S. effort to find peaceful uses for nuclear explosives.

John S. Kelly, director of the AEC's division of Peaceful Nuclear Explosives, sees the use of nuclear explosions to release new energy sources as the most promising current Plowshare program.

Such experiments with natural gas and oil shale involve underground nuclear blasts in Colorado. They have popularized a bumper sticker among test opponents that advises: "Visit Colorado, Playground of the AEC."

There are problems, Kelly admits. The first natural gas stimulated by a nuclear explosion was radioactive to an extent that makes it unfit for use in homes. But Kelly is certain the radioactivity can be reduced in future shots.

Opponents of such programs worry that economics will dictate a relaxation of safety.

The two companies most involved in this program are CER Geonuclear Corp. of Las Vegas, Nev., and Austral Oil Co. of Houston, Tex. Three officials from these companies recently jointly authored a paper called "Economics of Nuclear Gas Stimulation."

In it they said, "The two gas stimulation experiments performed thus far were so expensive they could not possibly be economic."

Opposition to the gas stimulation project known as Rulison in western Colorado led to the filing of a suit in U.S. District Court in Denver.

Everybody won a little bit. The project was allowed to continue with provision that proper safeguards be followed. But opponents were cheered by that part of the decision which gave them the right to sue a government agency whose activities they felt were potentially harmful.

Mercury Hazard Worries Hickel

WASHINGTON (AP) — Interior Secretary Walter J. Hickel, alarmed by the build up of brain-damaging mercury in public waters, has urged Justice Department prosecution of 13 firms for discharging the poisonous compound into streams.

The request was not made public, but officials in both departments Wednesday confirmed Hickel's action. The firms were not publicly named.

The action quickly followed the secretary's recent warning to 17 governors that "the presence of mercury in much of our nation's water constitutes an imminent health hazard."

Atom Test Foes Attack Blasts Off Alaskan Coast Areas

The Adult Reading World

By MRS. RAY DAVIS
Back in the Thirties, I think, a team of sociologists studied Muncie, Ind. and produced an excellent survey of that city in a book called "Middletown U.S.A."

My memory of it is a trifle hazy, but as I recall, the impact of the book was largely due to the statistics involved in proving certain sociological theses. Reading "Middletown U.S.A." gave one an insight into the mechanics of living in a small American city in the Depression years, but it provided nothing much of a picture of the individual persons living out their lives within that particular framework of sociology and economics.

In great contrast to "Middletown U.S.A." is a new book at the Public Library called "Akenfield: Portrait of an English Village" by Ronald Blythe, a writer who was born in a Suffolk village and has lived in East Anglia since 1955. There were only 298 men and women living in the village in 1961 and the writer knows each one intimately.

Following a general description of the character, Blythe's method has been to permit each to tell his story and assert his opinions in his own words. This results in a picture of the villagers as they represent the qualities and attitudes shared by everyone, while permitting the individual's characteristics — his opinions, his attitudes and his essential quality to shine through.

Some chapters are devoted to a single occupation or avocation, such as the chapters entitled "The Forge," "The Wheelwright" or "The Bell-Ringers." Other chapters, "God," "The School," "The Law" set forth the opinions and attitudes of various individuals towards the village institutions. This adds up to the fact that Ronald Blythe "has captured the essence of life in a village, its vigor, its diversity, its contradictions." This is a very good book indeed.

By coincidence another new book in the Library is concerned with life in an American village written by an American writer who has lived his life for the most part in just such a scene. Invitations for the 21st Annual Ashville - Harrison High School Alumni Association have been mailed by the secretaries of the organization. As there are quite a number of names now missing from the files, any graduate wishing to attend the banquet who did not receive an invitation may make reservations by calling Carolyn Peters, Beverly Hoover or Marty Wippel by July 29.

The banquet will be held in the Ashville Elementary School auditorium on August 1 with dinner being served at 6:30 p.m. Classes of 1910, 1920, 1945 and 1960 will be honored.

Those graduates not receiving invitations, whether planning to attend the banquet or not, are also asked to contact one of the above mentioned that their names may be added to the files to help bring all the information up to date.

Kim Glick, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Glick, is spending two weeks at the Girl Scout Camp Arrowhead near Jackson, Ohio.

The South Bloomfield Helping Hand Society will meet in the home of Ruth Roof, 5030 W. Main Street, at 2 p.m. Thurs., July 30. Assisting hostess will be Juanita Thomas.

The annual Rathburn family dinner was held Sun., July 12, at the Ashville Community Park. During the business meeting new officers were elected. They were Kenneth Rathburn, president; Marge Legg, vice president; Ruth Hettinger, secretary and Wilma Rathburn, treasurer. It was also decided to meet next year at the same place on the second Sunday in July.

Those attending were Mrs. Vera Reese, Mrs. Edith Crosby and family, Mr. and Mrs. Dick Reese and family, Mrs. Patty Sharp and John, Ronnie Brown, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Little and Jean, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Little and family, Harold Hopkins, Mr. and Mrs. Larry Little and family, Dickie Campbell, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Little and family, Mary Ellen Crosby.

Mr. and Mrs. Larry Knoll of 18 Logan Street, Swansea, Mass., announce the birth of a son on July 11 at the Newport Naval Hospital in Rhode Island. Mrs. Knoll is the former Sally Ann Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Emory Smith of Scioto Street.

Paternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Allen Knoll of Columbus, Ohio.

Friends and relatives helped Marion Glick celebrate his 80th birthday on Wed., July 8.

Marion received many birthday cards from well-wishers and he was visited in the afternoon by his first cousin, Arthur Whisner of Columbus. "Art" was 81 in January, he and Marion grew up together in the Ashville community.

A carry in picnic at the Ashville Park was held in the evening. A lovely white birthday cake with green and pink icing graced the table. Millie Morrison baked Grandpa Glick his favorite pumpkin pie and one of her famous angel food cakes.

Those present at the picnic were Mrs. Maynard Marion, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Brown and daughters, Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm Rathburn, Mr. Lee Alexander, Mrs. Frank Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Stillman Morrison, Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Bartholomew, Rhonda and Michael, Mr. and Mrs. Dave Gamble, Debbie and Jim, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Glick, Kim, Robin and Darryl, Mrs. Harry Lee, Donnie, David and Shawn, Mrs. Pat Hedges and children, Mrs. William Sherman, Brad and Brent, Mrs. Carol Teets, Mrs. Walter Morrison, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Morrison, Connie and Charlie Dean.

Art Deal is reminding all persons who in any way helped with the 4th of July Celebration that the Helpers' Picnic will be held Mon. July 27 in the Ashville Community Park. This event will be hosted by the members of the Ashville Community Club.

A reception was held in the dining room of the Zion United Methodist Church on Sun., July 19 honoring Rev. and Mrs. John Currens. Three of their children, Mr. Roy Currens, Mrs. Ruth Yorke and Mr. Michael Currens and wife Janet were present.

An opened Bible cake with the 1st and 2nd verses of the second chapter of Ephesians, written on the pages centered the honored guests' table. A decorated birthday cake for Mrs. Currens was also on the table.

Yellow and green streamers and yellow candles decorated the honored table and flowers centered all the other tables.

Following the carry-in dinner a short program was presented. Prayer was given by Steve Cook, Jack Lemon, Richard Cook and Charles Cromley sang "Praise For The Lord." A vocal duet by Richard Cook and Mrs. Stephen Cook "Saved By Grace" was presented. This song being a favorite of Rev. Currens.

Rev. J. D. Hopper gave a "Welcome Back" talk and presented the honored guests with a gift from the church. Rev. Currens gave a few remarks and expressed his appreciation to the church members for all they had done.

The children present delighted the people with two songs under the direction of Carol Cline. Richard Cook led the group in the singing of songs accompanied by Mrs. Donald Wean.

The group joined hands and sang "Blest Be The Tie That Binds". This was followed with prayer by Mae Alexander.

The Teays Valley Athletic Booster Club will sponsor a card party at the high school cafeteria 8 p.m. Sat., July 25.

tear gas and were in no danger of being killed.

The guard said troops were subjected to a hail of rocks thrown by students and that most of the 100 troops had been injured by thrown objects. The FBI report said this was not true, the newspaper stated.

The FBI said the 200 demonstrators heckling the guard could have been dispersed without firing weapons if arrests had been made and more tear gas used, the Beacon Journal said.

Of 13 students shot and wounded, four were shot in the front and nine were hit from the side or back in the 11 seconds of firing by the guard, according to the report, the newspaper said.

The U.S. Justice Department in Washington said it had sent a copy of the FBI report to Kane.

Kane said the report was for use by a special grand jury that is expected to be called next month to investigate the KSU disorders.

Kane also said he had not received a 10-page summary of the report.

The Beacon Journal study did not mention alleged sniper fire immediately preceding the firing by guardsmen. Del Corso said right after the shooting that there had been sniper fire, but disclaimed the statement later.

Unrest Probers Will Move To Miami Tuesday

OXFORD, Ohio (AP) — An Ohio legislative subcommittee, investigating unrest on college campuses, will move to Miami University Tuesday and hold a one-day hearing.

The subcommittee is one of three teams conducting hearings which have been held at Toledo, Youngstown State, Ohio University, Cincinnati, Kent State and Bowling Green. Another hearing is scheduled July 29 at Wright State University.

Rep. Charles F. Kurfess, speaker of the Ohio House of Representatives and chairman of the one subcommittee, said, "Persons who volunteer to testify before the subcommittee are asked to present written texts of their remarks in advance."

One session of hearings at the University of Cincinnati last week was interrupted by a group of students who put on a production. One student ended up being dismissed from classes at UC and another was denied readmission.

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

A Farewell To His Arms

DEAR ABBY: I have gone with one man for the past 10 years. He couldn't marry me for the first 5 years because he had to support his mother. Well, his mother died, so he found another reason. He wanted to be clear of all his debts. Next he wanted to buy a boat! (I let him have $1,400.)

Anyway, he says I'm the only one for him and in the meantime he is getting awfully hard to find. Last Friday night he rushed me home (he said he had a "headache") and said he wasn't going to do much on the week-end. I didn't hear from him, and his car was gone. He still owes me $1,400 which he never even mentions. I have cried my eyes out, Abby, and I can't eat or sleep. He knows how much I love him. What should I do now?

ONE MAN WOMAN
DEAR ONE: Collar the neck and ask him what (and who) is new? If it's the end of the romance, it's better to know it now than to kid yourself for another 10 years. Also be prepared to write off the $1,400 as "tuition in the school of experience." And finally, brace yourself for a farewell to arms. His.

DEAR ABBY: I am 20 and my girl friend is 19. She's a beautiful girl and a very nice one, but her pucker power is zero. In other words, she doesn't know how to kiss. I don't want to hurt her feelings, but maybe if you put this in your column she'll see it.

JACK THE LIPPER
DEAR JACK: Maybe the "power failure" is yours. Check your transmitter. You could have a dead battery.

DEAR ABBY: This is for that nurse who complained because whenever she appeared in her uniform in a supermarket, cafeteria or while waiting for a bus, strangers would ask her for medical advice: To wear the uniform in such places, not only degraded its symbolism, but it also renders the cost of such uniforms ineligible as a tax deduction.

A NURSE IN TUTTLE, IDAHO
DEAR NURSE: You are correct, or course. And I imagine no one gets away with very much in Tuttle, Idaho.

DEAR ABBY: A letter appeared in your column from a bride, asking whether to invite her father and his "new" wife to her wedding. The bride said that since there had been ill feelings about her parents' divorce and her father's remarriage, the "new" wife would probably have the good taste to decline.

You said, "And what if she doesn't? Don't risk inviting anyone anywhere hoping they'll decline. They just may accept." That's exactly what happened to me. My father remarried shortly after he and my mother were divorced. Not wanting to do anything in poor taste, in planning my wedding my mother and I sent an invitation to my father and his wife. They accepted promptly. Thus, the day that should have been the happiest in my life was ruined. The tension at my wedding could have been cut with a knife. My stomach was so tied in knots that I thought I was going to throw up on the way down the aisle. If I had it to do over again, I wouldn't even have invited my father. I would have asked my brother to give me away. Keep up the good work, Abby.

Ashville News Report

Mrs. John Sabine — 983-2086

Invitations for the 21st Annual Ashville Harrison High School Alumni Association have been mailed by the secretaries of the organization. As there are quite a number of names now missing from the files, any graduate wishing to attend the banquet who did not receive an invitation may make reservations by calling Carolyn Peters, Beverly Hoover or Marty Wippel by July 29.

The banquet will be held in the Ashville Elementary School auditorium on August 1 with dinner being served at 6:30 p.m. Classes of 1910, 1920, 1945 and 1960 will be honored.

Those graduates not receiving invitations, whether planning to attend the banquet or not, are also asked to contact one of the above mentioned that their names may be added to the files to help bring all the information up to date.

Kim Glick, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Glick, is spending two weeks at the Girl Scout Camp Arrowhead near Jackson, Ohio.

The South Bloomfield Helping Hand Society will meet in the home of Ruth Roof, 5030 W. Main Street, at 2 p.m. Thurs., July 30. Assisting hostess will be Juanita Thomas.

The annual Rathburn family dinner was held Sun., July 12, at the Ashville Community Park. During the business meeting new officers were elected. They were Kenneth Rathburn, president; Marge Legg, vice-president; Ruth Hettinger, secretary and Wilma Rathburn, treasurer. It was also decided to meet next year at the same place on the second Sunday in July.

Those attending were Mrs. Vera Roese, Mrs. Edith Crosby and family, Mr. and Mrs. Dick Roese and family, Mrs. Patty Sharp and John, Ronnie Brown, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Little and Jean, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Little and family, Harold Hopkins, Mr. and Mrs. Larry Little and family, Dickie Campbell, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Little and family, Mary Ellen Crosby.

Willie's Dillies

By BILL MCGAFFNEY
Herald Sports Editor

The arrival of cool weather moving into the area this week brought with it thoughts of Friday nights and the sounds of the wonderful world of football.

A leather shoe propelling the pigskin into orbit, pads cracking against pads, signals being barked in the cool autumn air, coaches calling advice to their stalwarts and crowds reacting to it all with cheers reverberating hopefully into the star studded skies.

In less than a month the call will be sounded for the aspirants to gather their equipment and make a bid for a spot on the squad and a chance for fame and glory.

Our best goes to Denny Williams and his Tigers, Bob Stant and his Braves, Dick Kidwell and his Vikings and Bill Vance and his Mustangs. We are looking forward to spending some pleasant evenings with them and their young gladiators.

Our little gem of information — Professional football teams estimate extra point kicks cost each club $1,000 a year. Only 27 of 555 attempts were missed in the National Football League in 1968 and 13 of 564 last season.

Our "fearless" forecast — Arnie and Jack won't lead the pack — Remains to be seen if it's Casper and Greene — Could be that Snead and Dickinson will — But don't overlook that Littler and Still.

Until next time, have a nice day — be a good sport.

Little Leaguer Listed 'Fair'

James (Peanuts) Barker is listed in fair condition this morning in Children's Hospital, Columbus.

The Little Leaguer is in intensive care after yesterday's operation for the amputation of his leg and is not allowed visitors at the present time.

His room number is 317.

Bullock Shoots

Low Gross At Lansdowne

Ray Bullock captured low gross honors with a 38 and Jeff Reeves' low net with 33 during Wednesday Night League action at Upper Lansdowne Golf Links.

Reeves' low net helped pace Team No. 1 which scored 20 points Wednesday. Other members of the team are Phil Pfefferle, Steve Scott and Mike Combs.

Team No. 5 is leading the league with a total of 49 points. Members of the team are Chuck Haynes, Eddie Combs, Jay Bastian and Dale Bastian.

Orioles Win 20th Straight Over Royals

By MIKE RECHT
Associated Press Sports Writer
As a new comer, Kansas City had a fine first meeting with the Baltimore Orioles, but then they got to know each other like "cousins," and the relationship has been deteriorating ever since for the Royals.

That first meeting was back on May 9, 1969, and after the usual introductions, the expansion Royals and Dick Drago went out and beat the powerful Orioles.

The Royals must have been happy to see the Orioles again the next night, but it wasn't the same, and hasn't been since. Baltimore won that game and went on to win the next 19 after that, including a 5-4 decision Thursday night in Kansas City.

The Orioles' 20 straight victories over the Royals pulls them within one of the firmest "cousin" relationships ever in the major leagues. "Cousin" is a term used in sports for a team that is a pushover for another club, and only the New York Yankees of 1927, who beat the St. Louis Browns 21 times in a row, ever had a better relationship.

Elsewhere on a light baseball night, Minnesota beat Detroit 2-1 and Cleveland upended the Chicago White Sox 5-2 at night in the American League and California stopped Boston 4-1 in the afternoon.

The Orioles beat Kansas City 11 consecutive times last season after that opening loss, and their victory Thursday night was their ninth this season—and it came against Drago.

It's not that the Royals don't have their chances against Baltimore—they lost in 13 innings Wednesday night and left 10 men on base Thursday night.

They had runners on second and third with one out in the first inning against Jim Palmer, 14-6, and managed only one run—a balk. In the fourth, they loaded the bases with none out, but needed a walk to force in their only run.

Doubles by Al Oliver and Billy

Sorrell gave them a 3-3 tie in the sixth and Cookie Rojas singled in a run in the eighth to pull them within 5-4, but, with two on, reliever Pete Richer got pinch-hitter Bob Taylor to hit into a doubleplay.

Finally, in the ninth, they had runners on first and third with two out, but Eddie Watt came in and retired Oliver.

Traded Pappas Shuts Out Reds For Season's First

By JERRY LISKA

Associated Press Sports Writer

CHICAGO (AP) — "Maybe" said well-traveled pitcher Milt Pappas of the Chicago Cubs, "I'm starting a new career at the age of 31."

Never at a loss for words during a baseball odyssey including sometimes stormy stops at Cincinnati, Baltimore and Atlanta, Pappas was full of talk after an impressive, four-hit 1-0 shut-out of the powerful Reds yesterday.

It was the first time the Reds have been blanked this year although they have shut out the opposition 11 times.

Discarded by the Atlanta Braves as a bullpen hurler June 25, Pappas probably pitched one of the finest games in his 14-year major league career in taming the club which battered Frank Robinson to get Milt from the Baltimore Orioles in 1965.

"Now I have a 6-3 record with four complete games," said Pappas, who is redeeming manager Leo Durocher's gamble on him as a fourth starter despite longstanding innuendoes the sturdy right-hander was a "five-inning pitcher."

Pappas, inspired by the fact that Wrigley Field partisans gave him a standing ovation "the first time I walked on the field here," especially rewarded them in the sixth inning yesterday when the Reds had the bases loaded with one out.

"So I walk Tony Perez intentionally to fill the bases, and now I'm up against Johnny Bench and this is the key situation to the whole game," Pappas said.

"My first pitch is a high, hanging slider — a home run pitch — but Bench swung too hard just grazing it. That was the turning point of the game. My rhythm came back and I slipped over a low slider for a strike Johnny takes."

"Then I whizzed a fast ball, knee high on the outside corner — a pitcher's dream pitch — and it's a called strike."

With the bases still loaded, Pappas got Bernie Carbo for the third out on a liner to deep left field.

After that, a superb pitching duel between Pappas and Jim McGlothlin, who left for a pinch-hitter after seven innings, was resolved by an eight-inning Cub run on shortstop Woody Woodward's throwing error.

Reliever Clay Carroll issued successive walks to Don Kessinger and Glenn Beckert to open the eighth; and Kessinger romped home when Woodward, trying to complete a double play on Billy Williams' roller to second, threw the ball into the dug-out past third base.

"I'd like to finish out my career with the Cubs," said Pappas, who has won four straight and stands 4-1 with the club.

"I'll tell you, when I got that standing ovation when I first got to Chicago, it's got to do something for you, makes you feel the game is worthwhile."

"I can't remember last having four complete games, but getting a chance to be a starter gives you a new lease on life. I now have won as many games as all last year with Atlanta (6-10)."

Pappas managed one zinger at his old Cincinnati club. "I understand this was the first time they were shut out this season. That breaks my heart."

In the only other National League games, Pittsburgh moved 2 1/2 games ahead of the idle New York Mets in the East with a 6-5 victory over Atlanta and Houston edged St. Louis 3-2.

In the American League, California whipped Boston 4-1, Cleveland downed Chicago 5-2, Minnesota nipped Detroit 2-1 and Baltimore edged Kansas City, 5-4.

Dave Cash capped a three-run eighth inning with a sacrifice fly in the Pirates thrilling victory.

With the Pirates trailing 5-3, Richie Hebner opened the Pittsburgh eighth with a single, moved to second on an error and scored on Al Oliver's single. Roberto Clemente ripped a pinch hit double and Manny

Willie's Dillies

By BILL MCGAFFNEY
Herald Sports Editor

The arrival of cool weather moving into the area this week brought with it thoughts of Friday nights and the sounds of the wonderful world of football.

A leather shoe propelling the pigskin into orbit, pads cracking against pads, signals being barked in the cool autumn air, coaches calling advice to their stalwarts and crowds reacting to it all with cheers reverberating hopefully into the star studded skies.

In less than a month the call will be sounded for the aspirants to gather their equipment and make a bid for a spot on the squad and a chance for fame and glory.

Our best goes to Denny Williams and his Tigers, Bob Stant and his Braves, Dick Kidwell and his Vikings and Bill Vance and his Mustangs. We are looking forward to spending some pleasant evenings with them and their young gladiators.

Our little gem of information — Professional football teams estimate extra point kicks cost each club $1,000 a year. Only 27 of 555 attempts were missed in the National Football League in 1968 and 13 of 564 last season.

Our "fearless" forecast — Arnie and Jack won't lead the pack — Remains to be seen if it's Casper and Greene — Could be that Snead and Dickinson will — But don't overlook that Littler and Still.

Until next time, have a nice day — be a good sport.

Wings Dump Jets In 13th

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Rochester has taken a short cut back into the upper bracket of the International League baseball standings, jumping from fifth spot to supplant Columbus in third position with a victory over the Jets.

The Red Wings' 4-3 win in 13 innings Thursday came after three straight defeats at the hands of the Jets had pried Rochester out of second spot into the lower bracket.

In the other action Thursday, Louisville put down a rally that had gained Syracuse three runs in the top of the ninth inning to salvage a 4-3 victory over the Chiefs.

Winnipeg's scheduled game at Richmond and Toledo's double-header at Tidewater were both rained out.

Mike Ferraro's double and Hank Allen's single put across the winning run in the top of the 13th inning for Rochester after the game had been tied by George Kopacz' solo homer for the Pirates in the bottom of the ninth.

Chuck Hartenstein, recalled Thursday by the parent Boston Red Sox, came in in the ninth inning for Louisville with two on and one out to preserve the victory for the Colonels.

Bullock Shoots Low Gross At Lansdowne

Ray Bullock captured low gross honors with a 38 and Jeff Reeves' low net with 33 during Wednesday Night League action at Upper Lansdowne Golf Links.

Reeves' low net helped pace Team No. 1 which scored 20 points Wednesday. Other members of the team are Phil Pfefferle, Steve Scott and Mike Combs.

Team No. 5 is leading the league with a total of 49 points. Members of the team are Chuck Haynes, Eddie Combs, Jay Bastian and Dale Bastian.

Orioles Win 20th Straight Over Royals

By MIKE RECHT

As a new comer, Kansas City had a fine first meeting with the Baltimore Orioles, but then they got to know each other like "cousins," and the relationship has been deteriorating ever since for the Royals.

Sudden Sam Notches 200 In Strikeouts

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Sam McDowell went over 200 strikeouts for the sixth straight season Thursday night as the Cleveland Indians beat the Chicago White Sox 5-2.

McDowell upped his record to 15-4 with his seventh straight victory, the 12th in his last 13 decisions.

McDowell fanned nine batters to raise his total to 205 this season. The major league record for 200 strikeout seasons is seven held by American Leaguers Rube Waddell and Walter Johnson.

Sandy Koufax, Don Drysdale and Bob Gibson hold the National League mark with six seasons.

That first meeting was back on May 9, 1969, and after the usual introductions, the expansion Royals and Dick Drago went out and beat the powerful Orioles.

The Royals must have been happy to see the Orioles again the next night, but it wasn't the same, and hasn't been since. Baltimore won that game and went on to win the next 19 after that, including a 5-4 decision Thursday night in Kansas City.

The Orioles' 20 straight victories over the Royals pulls them within one of the firmest "cousin" relationships ever in the major leagues. "Cousin" is a term used in sports for a team that is a pushover for another club, and only the New York Yankees of 1927, who beat the St. Louis Browns 21 times in a row, ever had a better relationship.

Elsewhere on a light baseball night, Minnesota beat Detroit 2-1 and Cleveland upended the Chicago White Sox 5-2 at night in the American League and California stopped Boston 4-1 in the afternoon.

The Orioles beat Kansas City 11 consecutive times last season after that opening loss, and their victory Thursday night was their ninth this season—and it came against Drago.

Horseshoe Tournery Set For 1970 Fair

Ray Goodman, president of the Pickaway County Horseshoe Club and tournament chairman, and John Wilkes, tournament manager, have again mapped out a three-division championship for the horseshoe tournament at the 1970 County Fair.

Qualification pitching will be held Monday through Wednesday from 6 p.m. until 9 p.m.

Class C finals will be held 6 p.m. Thursday, Class B 5 p.m. Friday and Class A 7:30 p.m. Friday.

Action will take place on the rebuilt courts complimented by new lighting. Interested players should contact Goodman or Wilkes.

Piranha Victory Sets Stage For Title Match

Circleville's Piranha Swim Team won its third consecutive meet in the Mt. Pleasant swim league defeating the Valley View Club, 321-104, at Lancaster.

The local swimmers won 42 of 52 events including 27 individual and 15 relay events.

Mary Reilly, Nancy Guenther and Jeff Geisler each won three events and Mike Sparks, Jane Guenther and Mike Lawler led the field twice.

Single wins went to Terri Strawser, Dave Resler, John Lawler, Kathy Penn, Steve Penn, Alan Krieger, Dan Stout, Mary Ann Cairns, Lisa Lintner, Mark Beck and Jane Hawk.

Circleville will host the undefeated Lancaster Country Club team Thursday in a meet that should determine the league championship. Both teams are 3-0 in the league.

It's not that the Royals don't have their chances against Baltimore—they lost in 13 innings Wednesday night and left 10 men on base Thursday night.

They had runners on second and third with one out in the first inning against Jim Palmer, 14-6, and managed only one run—on a balk. In the fourth, they loaded the bases with none out, but needed a walk to force in their only run.
